Class of 1915

Our Faculty

Our bark, at last, is launched upon the deep,
Bedecked like bride with roses from the hill.
She proudly rends and rides the billowy steep,
Eager to feel the ocean's dancing thrill.
She plunges forth upon the foaming tide,
With gilded sails unfurled immense and wide.
Restless she heaves upon her naken spine,
And proves the worth of Maine's illustrious pine.

And lo! the builders watch from yonder tower
Their craft steer safely round the rocky shore.
They smile, and say, "behold our sun-kist flower,
How blithe she dances o'er the ocean's floor!"
Blessed be ye, our Masters and our Seers,
Who carved our lives from your ennobling years.
Farewell,—we go to think the thoughts you thought.
Farewell,—we go to fight the fights you fought.

Dedication

To

Professor R. R. N. Gould, A.M.

whose optimistic interpretation of past and current events has awakened within us an appreciation of our obligations to the every day life which we are about to enter

This volume is affectionately dedicated

Alma Mater

Here's to Bates, our Alma Mater dear,
Proudest and fairest of her peers,
We pledge to her our loyalty,
Our faith and our honor through the years.
Long may her praises resound;
Long may her sons exalt her name,
May her glory shine while time endures,
Here's to our Alma Mater's fame.

We have seen her battles bravely fought,
Prowess and pluck upon the field,
We have known defeat and victory;
Bates men were never known to yield.
Here's to the Garnet—Hurrah!
Here's to the pluck that shall not fail,
To our Bates and all she means to us,
Here's to our Alma Mater—Hail!

Foreword

Our collegiate course is very nearly ended. As we have looked back over the upward climb it has been the attempt of The Mirror Board to present to you pleasant pictures of the sunny places which were so welcome as a break in the daily ascent.

We have attempted to take the viewpoint of the mountain climber who has reached the summit and looks back upon the journey with a large vision free from thoughts of petty struggle and contest.

In a panoramic view of this kind it is only possible to reproduce those elements which stand out most clearly. In our process of selection we have wished to dwell upon those steps of our journey which will in after years recall the most pleasant associations.

Oct. 30. Hallowe'en Party at Rand Hall; lasting friendships formed and temporary love-affairs.

History of the Class of 1915

WHEN in future years, we look into the "Mirror" of our youth and see ourselves as we were seen by others in those halcyon college days, we shall wish to recall a bit of our history as a class, our rides, our parties, our Christmas tree, in short, anything which reflects our class life. From the day of our first class meeting when "Smarty" Baldwin took the chair, and we elected our first class officers, we have felt the spirit of 1915. On that never-to-be-forgotten class ride to Lake Grove, we learned to know each other, and began to feel that bond of comradeship which was to hold us together during four college years. We walked and talked together, we sailed together, we played games together. We joined in a ringing cheer for our Alma Mater, and for her youngest sons and daughters, the members of the Class of 1915. We climbed Mount Gile, and we drank each other's health at the old cider mill. But best of all, we learned to know Uncle Johnny, the friend of all Freshmen, and our memories of him will always go back to our first, last, and only class ride. Soon, however, the strenuous duties of curriculum and extra-curriculum courses, banished our hopes of social activities. How busy we all have been! Only the athletic rallies, snowshoe, or tobogganing parties mark the first three years of our college course.

As Seniors, we looked forward with anticipation to the Christmas Tree, and the realization was just as good as the anticipation. Our first real class party was held early in March, when at the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Small, we gave Ernest the surprise of his life.

The reception tendered by President Chase to the Seniors proved to be one of the gala events of our four years.

But what are social activities in comparison with our other achievements? We have in our ranks geniuses who will make their mark in the world. We have left at Bates a record of which no class need be ashamed, and we look forward to a glorious future for each and every member of the Class of 1915.

Oct. 31. Bates beats Bowdoin, 27 to 0.

HAROLD CHARLES ABBOTT

"Doc"

Here is a man of whom much might be said, but little will suffice. "Doc" deserted us for the last half of the Junior year, and we thot we'd lost him for sure. Not being able to find any other institution more suited to his tastes than Bates, he came back to finish his college course with us. He has become a regular Lothario this year. He is an earnest and devoted student of (co)-education and more than that, he has been known to cut at least three recitations and rarely attends chapel. "Doc" never has much to say, but when he does take the trouble to talk, his flow of language is equal to that of Pliny or Aristotle.

Born at Lynn, Mass., Sept. 5, 1892; Dorchester High School, 1911; entered Bates 1911; Orchestra (1, 2); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Sophomore Champion Debate; Champion Individual Debater (2); Sophomore Prize division; Assistant in English (4); General Scholarship Prize (1); Senior Exhibition; Class Day Orator; Baptist; Republican; majors, Biblical Literature; thesis subject, "Why I Believe in God;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, the ministry; address, 11 Bullard St., Dorchester, Mass.

Nov. 2. Mary Antin lectures on "The Promised Land."

JAMES NOAH ATWOOD

"Harry"

Good old "Harry Atwood." Altho he's got it on the rest of us for adipose tissue and gray hair, he nevertheless has come to be known as one of the 1915 boys. Harry has had quite a lot of experience and unlimited knowledge, too. But there is one thing he knows that he won't tell and that is his age. You ask him how old he is and he will chuckle a little and with a sly wink say "16 at least." We all admire you, Harry. You have been with us only two years, but you have taught us all a lesson of pluck and perseverance. If any of us deserve a sheepskin, you certainly are among the first.

Born at Frankfort, Maine; fitted at Oak Grove Seminary Missionary Training School, Nyack, N. Y.; Bangor Theological Seminary, 1912; entered 1915 in Junior year; Y. M. C. A.; Roger Williams Association; Methodist; Republican; major, Philosophy; thesis subject, "Modern Beliefs of Immortality;" Degree, A.B.; ministry; address, East Sumner, Maine.

Nov. 3. Billy Durgan stays awake in English.

MILDRED SARA BASSETT

"Noldy"

Place—Rand Hall. Time—study hours. (Exit Noldy). Crash! Bang! Sh-s-s-s——, Noldy—"Tain't me. Honest, t'aint!!"

What's the trouble anyway? Noldy's got a "brand new" story that ante-dates the Spanish War. That reminds me. Noldy's looking for a government job—to carry the mail to such far distant places as Rumford. We hope she gets it; the prospects are excellent. But while fitting for this position she stars in basketball, hockey, and baseball, an all-round girl and loved by us.

Born January 31, 1891, Alton, N. H.; Rochester High School, 1909; entered Bates in 1911; Girls' Baseball Team (2, 3, 4); Basketball (1, 3, 4); Track (3, 4); Hockey (1, 4); numerals (1, 2, 4); B. W. (4); Athletic Association; Executive Board (4); Manager of Baseball (4); Mandolin Club (4); Y. W. C. A. H.

Nov. 4. Hod Davis leads a Hare and Hound chase thru the streets of Lewiston.

RUTH NETTIE BEANE

"Buttercup"

"I thot I'd fallen in love before
When along came Ruth."

Did this echo come from Cambridge, Farmington, Norway, or just Mr. Bates' place. At any rate, it's true. Ask any of Ruth's neighbors in Rand and they will tell you that she has the faculty of getting the lesser half of creation stuck on her that is equalled only by Tanglefoot. Divinity Fudge, and entertaining Freshmen are her major accomplishments and she is equally expert in baseball, basketball, tennis, hockey, and everything else. As a diplomat she cannot be excelled in the ease and tact with which she persuades the "Powers That Be." Her only failings are in Parliamentary law, Rand Hall conventionalities and knitting in Monie's English class, but when we consider her unfailing stock of mischief, generosity and thotfulness, we feel justified in excusing the above-mentioned failings.

Born Norway, Maine, May 8, 1893; Norway High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Hockey Championship Team (4); Baseball (2); Tennis (3, 4); Basketball (3, 4); Numerals (3); B. W. (4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Board (4); Captain of Class Tennis Team; Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Social Committee (3); Poster (4); Piæria (1, 2, 3); Assistant Secretary (2); Executive Board (3); Prohibition Club (4); Enkuklios (4); President (4); Seniority (4); Class Day Committee; Mirror Board Artist; Congregationalist; Democrat; majors, English and German; thesis subject, "Edgar Allan Poe;" Degree, A.B.; teaching; address, Norway, Maine.

Nov. 5. New laundry system at Parker—good-bye, blankets!

ADRIENNE ANNETTE BELLEAU

"Ad-rr-rr-ienne"

We must be careful what we say about her because she is on the Mirror Board. If you don't believe it, watch her and "Les" Carey do the social stunt in the Mirror Board picture. Adrienne certainly knows how to make coffee and salad à la Marguerite. Her hearty ha! ha! would certainly furnish cheer for any party provided we decide to find amusement in our little circle only. Adrienne came to Bates in order that she might have a "little street of her own to walk on" and, we may add, to get as large an assortment of shoes as possible. We could write a whole volume on rubber-boots and shoes of various kinds which she wears on Skinner Street in different weather. So here's a toast to Adrienne:

Adrienne now,
Adrienne ever.
Belleau now,
But not forever.

Born Lewiston, Maine, Jan. 11, 1891; Lewiston High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); Larfaneeta Club; Social Editor of Mirror; Class Day Poet; Catholic; anti-suffragette; majors, German, Latin, and English; thesis subject, "The Mastery of French Thru Latin;" degree, A.B.; teaching; Class Day Poem; address, 343 Sabattus St., Lewiston, Maine.

Nov. 6. Dr. Tubbs lectures on "Military Science."

THOMAS HAROLD BLANCHARD

"Tom"

Prexy's face beamed with supreme happiness when Tom told him that he hailed from Gardiner. Later he was puzzled whether to make him Vice-President or Dean's secretary. It's a shame to tell how near he came to either. He is the most silent, secretive person in Parker Hall, but he couldn't fool us. We saw Dexter postmarks on his letters and drew our own conclusions concerning the photos of the young lady that occupy half the wall space above his desk and the whole of his mind. Tom is leader of the Glee Club and has even Caruso fighting for a chance to speak to him. When once aroused Thomas Harold can express himself so fluently that a Professorship of Profane Languages is open to him in a near-by college. Never mind, Tom, still waters always run deep.

Born Oct. 21, 1892, at South Gardiner; Gardiner High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals in Track (1, 2, 3); Baseball (2); Band (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); President of the Musical Association (3, 4); Leader of College Band (3, 4); Leader of Glee Club (4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Jordan Scientific Society (4); Congregationalist; thesis subject, "John Milton;" Degree, A.B.; address, 18 Chestnut St., Gardiner, Maine.

Nov. 7. Freshman Frolic at Rand.

HARRY WALTER BROOKS

The man that made the New England Telephone Co. put the five-minute limit into its rules. She calls up in the morning; he sees her at noon and night, and then she calls him up when he gets back to his room. Small chance of H. Walter going astray. Harry could give lessons in Domestic Science easily for he has played the title role of Delmonico while here with us. He is also a fellow-member of the "Woolworth" and the paying teller. His Freshman year was devoted to helping the curfew clear the streets of young ladies from 16 upward. We are sorry that so few of us have had the chance to cultivate his acquaintance since he only sleeps at Parker Hall. We will always remember his sunny smile that has helped him even thru Monie's English.

Born at Randolph, Maine, Dec. 20, 1894; Gardiner High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.; Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Parker Hall Association; Assistant in Physics; Universalist; majors, German and Chemistry; thesis subject, "German Electors;" Degree, A.B.; occupation, teaching; address, 24 Main St., Randolph, Maine.

Nov. 9. Concert by Will C. MacFarlane and Olive Kline.

FRANCES VIOLET BRYANT

"Poppy"

When "Poppy," dignified and demure, walks forth with her Virgil under her arm, she can easily be identified with the Bates faculty. When she wields a hockey stick, throws a goal in Basketball, or makes a home run in baseball, we give her first rank in our sports. When she writes a poem for Spofford Club or Ivy Day we begin to wonder what there is she can't do; and when she rises to debate for 1915 or coaches the Sophomores on to victory, we know she can do everything and do it well. She was never known to say but one indiscreet thing and that was an incomplete sentence muttered in her sleep "Oh, sweetheart——." "Poppy" has won her way with the Professors for her brilliant scholarship and is dearly loved by her classmates for her sunny disposition.

Born Richmond, Maine, Sept. 23, 1890; Richmond High School, 1909; entered Bates, 1911; Captain of Girls' Baseball Team (1, 2, 3, 4); Hockey (3, 4); Volley Ball Manager (4); Track (3, 4); Numerals 2, 3, 4); B. W. (4); Basketball (2, 3, 4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Board (3, 4); Glee Club (3); College Choir (3); Mandolin Club (3, 4); Y. W. C. A. Social Committee (2); Finance (3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Spofford Club (3, 4); Enkuklios (4); Seniority (4); Chairman of Argumentation Department; Press Club (2, 3); Literary Editor of Bates Student; Mirror Board, Personals; Sophomore Championship Debate; Prohibition Club (4); Ivy Day Poet; Assistant in Latin; Senior Exhibition speaker; Senior Exhibition Committee; Coach of 1917 Sophomore Debating Team; Class Christmas Tree Committee; Free Baptist; Republican; majors, English, German Biology, Latin; thesis subject, "A Modern Ancient;" degree, A.B.; teaching; address, Richmond, Maine.

Nov. 14. Seniors win Hockey championship, 4-2.

LESLIE ROY CAREY

"Les"

"Say not my art is fraud—all live by seeming."

New Hampshire has done much for Bates, but she did her best when she sent us Leslie Roy. He was such a shy youth when he came from Ashland's busy marts of trade! A strong aversion for the fairer sex was often expressed by him during his first days at Bates, but some say that his college course has accomplished its great purpose of removing prejudices, and now he can endure the company of just one lady for a few moments at a time. His many talents have found adequate expression in every nameable activity that college life affords. He is a musical man, a debater, a brilliant student, and has an unbreakable buzzing attachment. We see in his chosen life work as Y. M. C. A. secretary, a long period of usefulness for this most genial classmate and true-blue man.

Born at Ashland, N. H., Aug. 22, 1890; New Hampton Literary Institute, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Broadsword Drill (1); Glee Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Mandolin Club; Banjo Club; Manager of Combined Clubs (3); Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Chairman of Religious Meetings Committee (4); Executive Committee (3); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Roger Williams Association; Secretary (3); Spofford (3, 4); President (4); Politics Club; Local Editor of Student (3); Mirror Board, Social Editor; 'Varsity debate Bates vs. Colgate (3); Bates vs. Tufts (4); Prize division of Freshman and Sophomore Declamations; Junior Exhibition, first prize; Senior Exhibition, prize; Assistant in Oratory (4); Free Baptist; Republican; majors, English and French; thesis subject, "Literary Pessimism;" Drew Medal for Debating; Degree, A.B.; address, Ashland, N. H.

Nov. 16. President Moore of the Parker Hall Association tells the bunch what's what.

VEVA MARIE CHAPMAN

"V. V."

Well, here is sober, sedate, sublime "V. V." Perhaps it is not generally known, but it is certain that she is a 20th century Sherlock Holmes, but instead of mystery "excitement" is her uppermost interest. If you should ask this great detective what excitement comprises she would say "some of these wheegees." But horrors! 1915 almost lost this wonderful being, for recently V. V. attended a dinner at Prof. Gould's where candles were used in the decorations. Whether or not it was because she doubted the reality of the flame, we do not know, but instinct prompted her to investigate and Veva's arm was roasted in the flames. Yes, Veva, there is always heat where there is a flame.

Born at Auburn, Maine, July 26, 1892; Edward Little High School, 1911; entered Bates 1911; Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); "Larfeneeta; Deutsche Gesellschaft; Junior Exhibition Speaker; Congregationalist; majors, German and English; thesis subject, "Goethe's Use of Nature;" Degree, A.B.; teaching; address, 30 Lake Auburn Avenue, Auburn, Maine.

Nov. 18. Lecture by A. B. Hart of Harvard University.

EARLE ROBINSON CLIFFORD

"Cliff"

We expected better things of Earle, but alas! he, too, was singed by the flame oft frequented by the "lesser half of creation." But there were good results. To cool his burning countenance he made use of his extensive chemical knowledge and has produced a most excellent cosmetic guaranteed to remove painlessly all blushes. For a man from South Paris the "town of original fame" Earle has covered himself with glory, playing football in spite of broken noses, etc. One question remains unanswered, Cliff didn't show up after the Harvard game until 3 A.M. Where was he? We don't know. Our advice to you, Cliff, is: "Don't exceed the speed limit in buzzing. Remember Turner and be wise."

Born at South Paris, Maine, Oct. 13, 1893; Paris High School, 1911; entered Bates 1911; Football Team (1, 2, 3, 4); made B (4); Track Team (3, 4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); President (4); Y. M. C. A.; Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Treasurer (3); Parker Hall Association; Deutscher Verein (4); Jordan Scientific Society (4); Business Manager of Bates Student (3); Business Manager of Mirror; Chairman of Ivy Day Committee; Assistant in Chemistry (4); Congregationalist; Republican; majors, German and Chemistry; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject: "The Nitrogen Problem;" teaching; address, South Paris, Maine.

Nov. 19. Cathedral choir in City Hall.

MARION RUTH COLE

Talk about Barnum's famous jugglers! He isn't in it with this young lady for keeping several dozen things going at once. Marion's weekly program would fill the hands of four ordinary mortals, but with a few resigned remarks about "this system," she calmly sails along over a limitless ocean of Freshman themes, mandolin club rehearsals, Y. W. C. A. cabinet meetings, mission study classes, Spofford club meetings, Student editor work, MIRROR Board, Seniority, Enkuklios and a few asides such as hockey, volley ball, a 25-hour schedule which includes two of Railroad Gould's courses. In spite of this she manages to acquire the bad reputation of being liked by everybody.

Born at Crystal, N. H., Jan. 10, 1891; Edward Little High School, 1909; entered Bates, 1911; Hockey Championship Team (4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Manager (3); Leader (4); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Cabinet (4); Chairman of Missionary Committee (4); Seniority (4); Piæria (1, 2, 3); Spofford (3, 4); New Hampshire Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Enkuklios (4); Press Club (2, 3); Local Editor on Bates Student (1, 2, 3); MIRROR Board, Class Editor; Ivy Ode; Assistant in English (3, 4); Freshman Reading Prize; Baccalaureate Ode; Methodist; Democrat; majors, English, German and History; degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "Nature in American Poetry;" teaching; address, Crystal, N. H.

Nov. 21. Red Cross Tea in Fiske Room. Oh, you chicken in 25 Rand!

IDA BEATRICE CURRIE

"Cap'n"

Ida left her smile at home when she had this picture taken. She is the Acadian maiden whom Longfellow has pictured in his Evangeline:

"An elegant sufficiency, content,
Retirement, rural quiet, friendship, books,
Ease and alternate labor, useful life,
Progressive virtue and approving heaven."

A piece of advice for you. Ida, if you wish to be called by your right name, why don't you pin one of your calling cards on your dress? Then you will not be obliged to go down the receiving line of another reception as Miss Bryant, nor meet the members of the Bates Needle Club as Miss Stuart. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Born February 12, 1893, at McNally's Ferry, N. B.; Jordan High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Captain of Hockey Team (1, 2, 3, 4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); "Larfeneeta" (3, 4); Mirror Board (4); Athletic Editor; Vice-President of Class (3); Baptist; Democrat; majors, English and German; thesis subject, "The King Arthur Cycle;" degree, A.B.; teaching; address, McNally's Ferry, York County, N. B.

Nov. 25. Thanksgiving.

HORACE JUDKINS DAVIS

"Hod"

Behold the sophist of the class! Born and reared on the products of New Hampshire soil, he has finally developed into a most retiring, modest young man. In his early college days, "Hod" used to frequent White Street, but that was years ago. Practically the only chance you have now to get a peek at him is early in the morning on his way to Hedge Laboratory where he interns until the sun sets. Tho Hod does not possess the "gift of gab" he is right there with the goods when it comes to faithful, consistent work and real popularity.

Born at Rochester, N. H., Feb. 13, 1893; Rochester High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Indian Club Drill (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Roger Williams Association Executive Committee (2); Sanitary Commission (3, 4); Deutscher Verein (4); Politics Club (3, 4); Jordan Scientific Society (4); Assistant in Chemistry (4); Gymnasium (3); Class Day Committee; Baptist; Republican; majors, Physics and Chemistry; thesis subject, "The Electron Theory of Valence;" degree, B.S.; address, 9 Myrtle St., Rochester, N. H.

Nov. 27. Co-eds invited to a feed at the Commons.

GEORGE RONELLO DOLLOFF

"Dolly"

This is Dolloff, and he hails from the mud-flats of Wiscasset where they have the Lincoln county jail. "Dolly" is a left-over from 1913. He appears in the 1913 Mirror, but he has grown better looking since then. During the last year he has lost his girl and his appendix, but he still retains his Mellin's Food complexion and his appetite. He has been mixed up in almost everything in college even to the Deutscher Verein, but we will forgive him that. We are sorry to say that Music Hall has taken up most of his spare time, but in spite of that, "Doll" is a painstaking and brilliant student, made of the right stuff.

Born at New Glocuester, Maine, May 15, 1892; New Gloucester High School, 1909; entered 1915 in Senior year; Men's Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.; Leader of Bible Study group (4); Employment Committee (3); Piæria (3); Parker Hall Association; Deutscher Verein; Vice-President; Congregationalist; Democrat; majors, German and Chemistry; thesis subject, "Economic Development of Germany in the Last Quarter Century;" degree, A.B.; industrial chemist; address, Wiscasset, Me.

Nov. 30. College opens—back to the grind again.

ROSCOE LORING DUNN

"Ross"

Roscoe, to thee we come when the treasures of art are to be expounded! His taste ranges from Bob Ott to Tetrazzini. There is no impulse or emotion of the mind to which "Ross" cannot apply a classic rendering, "I laughed and laughed until I thot I'd pass away." In spite of his timidity in the presence of the fairer sex, Roscoe is a universal favorite and has the distinction of being the best dressed man in 1915.

Born at Auburn, Maine; Hebron Academy, 1911; entered Bates in 1911; Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Roger Williams Association; Methodist; majors, English and History; thesis subject, "Nature in American Poetry;" degree, A.B.; library work; address, 48 Dennison St., Auburn, Maine.

MABEL CUSHING DURGAN

"Billy"

Here comes Billy! Where's she come from? That's easy. Aroostook! Where's she going? Goodness knows. Maybe to umpire a basketball game, lead a mission study class, dec at something, play tennis, or hockey, or volley-ball, or maybe baseball, or she maybe bound for Spofford Club or perhaps on the track of someone who has cut their telephone hour. Who's with her? A man! Must be one of her sons (they're usually near "mother") or if it's a stranger it's probably Freddie. Busy? Always. Yet she has time to help everybody out of their scrapes. We couldn't get along without this dearest little daughter of the North.

Born at Sherman, Maine, Nov. 25, 1890; Island Falls High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Baseball Team (1, 2, 3, 4); Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); Captain (1, 2, 3, 4); Track (3, 4); Hockey (3, 4); Manager of Basketball (4); Numerals (1, 2, 3, 4); B. Dec. 4. Seniority takes a cut.

ANNIE LORA FOLSOM

"Annie F. F."

Watch Annie commence in pink! Everywhere that Annie went her gown(?) was sure to go. At all sewing bees it was very much in prominence. We never had to wonder what Annie's sewing would be. A casual onlooker could never imagine all the time she industriously spent on her ravishing pink "evening gown." Ever since she has entered our class she has been embroidering her best into it, promising us that she will appear in it on commencement day. We hope she won't disappoint us the last thing and veil it from inquisitive eyes.

Born at Minot, Maine, March 9, 1891; fitted for college at Jordan High School; was graduated June, 1909; entered Bates, 1909; entered 1915 in Junior year; member of the "Larfeneeta" Club; religiious preference, Universalist; political preference, Progressive; majors, History and English; thesis subject, "The History of the Triple Entente;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 8 Cottage St., Lewiston.

Dec. 5. The Class in History of Religion visits the Jewish Synagogue.

HARLON MELVIN FOSSETT

"Cicero"

Harlon Melvin Fossett, alias Cicero Hannibal Butts, alias Prof. Fossett; the only original physicist, mathematician and chapel cutter. Yes, he acquired the title of professor because of his likeness to the faculty in his regularity at cutting chapel. It is an uncommon occurrence when Harlon spends the week-end with his room-mates. Harlon was under Prexy's ban when he first arrived—his appearance seemed to belie his matriculation pledge—but now Prexy has discovered the halo which has sat so heavily upon Cicero's head as to wear off the fur. Prof. Fossett intends to devote his life to the heathen—we know he will succeed because he weighs about two hundred pounds.

Born at Pittston, Maine, Sept. 28, 1892; Gardiner High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Parker Hall Association; Jordan Scientific Society; Episcopalian; thesis subject, "Magnetic Cycle of Iron;" Degree, A.B.; teaching; address, Gardiner, Maine.

ABBIE ELIZABETH FOSTER

"Abigail"

Of her is there so moche to ben sayéd
Of goode, that I wot not where I shall
Bigynne. Blonde she is; eyen greye
As glas. If fortunen I coude, so
I wolde tell you; if that she will go
To fer Cathay, or if that she the lyf
Will chosen of a Palmer good; perchance
Felicitee may ben her part, a Palmer
For to ben, and eek to fer Cathay
To voyage. Ther she wolde of surgerye
And medicin the hethen helpen
And lyght unto his darkenesse bringen.

Born at Monticello, Maine, 1892; East Corinth Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Missionary Committee; Student Volunteer Band, Secretary (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Committee; Baptist; Independent; majors, English and German; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Faults of Realism;" medical missionary; address, East Corinth, Maine.

Dec. 7. "The Comedy Players" at City Hall.

CARLTON STUART FULLER

"Blondy"

In spite of the fact that he hails from Turner, Carl has produced the goods. To look at his serene little figure you'd never guess that he is one of the snappiest infielders that ever donned a glove. That sleepy look is only a bluff to hide the ginger which is responsible for three-baggers. In his Senior year by sheer force of personality, Carl surprised a lot of us by climbing into the band-wagon of all the society life in college. His greatest and most unique stunt is breaking all records for speed in sliding beefs and lambs across the counter over at the Commons, but he chooses "chickens" by way of variety when he enters the social whirl.

Born at Medfield, Mass., Jan. 19, 1894; Leavitt Institute, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; manager of Class Track Team (4); made "B" in Baseball (3, 4); Numerals (1, 2); Football (2, 3, 4); Leader of Prize Indian Club Drill (1); Piæria (1, 2, 3); Student Council (4); Politics Club (4); Deutscher Verein (4); 'Varsity Club (4); Athletic Association, Advisory Board (4); Jordan Scientific Society (4); Assistant in Gym (2, 3, 4); Universalist; Progressive; majors, German; Degree, A.B.; address, Turner, Maine.

Dec. 12. Mr. Perrin lectures to Enkuklios—"Pommkettahaha."

JOHN THOMAS GREENAN

"Father" "Jack"

The girls call him a minister but they never heard him argue with his room-mates. He is Railroad Gould's chief apostle and advocate. We can't tell whether he has a misplaced eyebrow or a force of habit. But nevertheless, for all of these backward traits, Jack is a worker of the first order. He is a sympathetic adviser to all in trouble. Pedagogy is his future! Lord have mercy on the ignorant. They will be entirely swamped by the fluent flow of learned sayings issuing from Father's extensive experience in Doc. Britan's classes. In spite of his many outside activities he yet finds time to write a few letters which leads us to suspect he is not entirely buzz-proof.

Born New York City, Nov. 25, 1890; New Hampton Literary Institute, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Manager of 'Varsity Track (3); made "B" in Track (3); Associate Member of Y. M. C. A.; Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Executive Committee; Parker Hall Association; Spofford Club (3, 4); Politics Club (3, 4); President (4); Literary Editor of the Bates Student; Editor-in-Chief of Mirror; Sophomore Prize Division; Junior Exhibition; Class President (2); Assistant in English (3); Freshman Reading Prize; Student Manager of College Commons; Treasurer of M. I. C. A. A.; 'Varsity Club; Address to Undergraduates, Class Day speaker; Congregationalist; Wilson Republican; majors, Philosophy and English; thesis subject, "The Teaching of Civic Duty in Elementary Schools;" Degree, A.B.; Pedagogy; address, 80 Graham St., Jersey City, New Jersey.

Dec. 16. No English. Monie says instead of dropping a stitch in his back, he has unraveled the whole thing.

MARION GWENDOLINE GREENE

"Gwen"

For two years she has trained up the Freshmen girls in the way they should go. Moreover, this year she has trained them in the way they should speak, as well as their Sophomore sisters. With all these extra labors we must wonder how she finds time to read all the books that Monie mentions. To be sure she shines in other departments, too, but the former seems to us the most marvelous. Walking is her favorite form of athletics. She says it is good to relieve her brain from the pressure of so much hot air.

Born at Vinalhaven, Maine, March 5, 1892; Vinalhaven High School, 1910; entered Bates in 1911; Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); Assistant in Oratory (4); Freshman Reading Prize; Senior Exhibition speaker; Union; independent; majors, English and History; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Influence of Geographic Environment on the History of the British Isles;" teaching; address, Vinalhaven, Me.

Dec. 17. Tortoise Shell Club incorporated.

GEORGE B. GUSTIN

"Gus"

Metaphorically speaking, "Gus" is brain and brawn of 1915 for Roger Williams. But we do not mean to say that Roger Williams is to claim all the admiration which old '15 has for "Gus;" every man and woman in Bates admires him for his pluck on the football field, for his fight as a debater, and above all, a strong and pleasing personality. One has only to read the emblematic words "body, mind and spirit" on his Y. M. C. A. pin to get a summary of his character. The more important part of creation seems to occupy but a very slight space in Gustin's program, but we would like a satisfactory explanation of his trips to Sabattus every Saturday.

Born at Standish, Maine, March 7, 1894; Gorham High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Football Team (4); "B" (4); Numerals in Track and Drills; Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Religious Education Committee; Piæria (1, 2, 3); Politics Club; 'Varsity Debater against Colgate (3); Ivy Day Orator; Peace Oration (4); Methodist; Republican; major, English; degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Sociological Basis of Historical Jurisprudence;" Law; address, Sabattus, Maine.

Dec. 19. Tuttle gets a hair cut.

ETTA IZELLA HALE

Poor Etta! How lonely and forsaken she looks! No one to carry her books to class, early in the morning, and sit beside her until the first bell rings; no one to meet her on the steps of Hathorn Hall; no one to guide her over the icy paths. But Etta is improving her time. Instead of idly moping over the dear departed, she is diligently and successfully striving to become a modest, sweet and noble woman, in every way fit to occupy the honored position she expects to hold in the near future.

Born Bridgton, Maine, May 6, 1893; Bridgton High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Y. W. C. A. (3, 4); Piæria (3); Enkuklios; religious preference, Methodist; political party, Progressive; majors, English and Philosophy; thesis subject, "The Spirit of the East;" degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching (?); address, Bridgton, Maine.

Dec. 21. Paul Smith was seen racing across the campus.

EARLE ATHERTON HARDING

"Duke"

This is Earle, otherwise known to his close associates as "Duke." If you see a man slowly wending his way across the campus, with his head hung in deep meditation, that's "Duke," This man is one of 1915's brainiest men; but strange to say, altho he rooms in Parker Hall, his study is in a secluded and serene spot on Wood Street. Sad to relate, "Duke" is another one of the class who cannot get along without "a companion." Three years at Princeton is a long time, Earle, so think twice before you jump. We hope that, in years to come, we will be as proud of you, old man, as we are now. Don't let fourth dimensions and differential equations ever take up so much of your time that you will forget 1915.

Born, Pittsfield, Maine, April 19, 1887; Maine Central Institute, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; football (1, 2, 3, 4); made "B" Football (2, 3); Prize Club Indian Drill (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Advisory Board (3, 4); Cabinet (4); Eurosophia (1, 2, 3); President (3); Student Council (3); Parker Hall Association (3); Politics (3, 4), Secretary (4); Jordan Scientific Society, Secretary (4); Editor-in-Chief of Bates Student; alternate, Sophomore Debates; 'Varsity Debating Team (3); Ivy Day Chaplain; Socialist Society; Intercollegiate Prohibition League; Campus Senior Committee (4); undergraduate member of Intercollegiate Civic Committee of National Municipal League; Senior Exhibition; Assistant in Mathematics (2, 3, 4); Methodist; Republican; majors, Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, English; thesis subject, "The Philosophy of Science;" degree, B.S.; intended occupation, Physical History; address, Hemet, Cal.

Dec. 23. Christmas vacation begins.

CHARLES HENRY HIGGINS

"Hig"

This is "Hig," our class heavy weight. More than that "Hig's" weight is composed chiefly of brain. Where the ordinary mortal possesses in the neighborhood of 45 ounces, he has at least 60. Strange as it may seem for one of such a modest and unassuming nature, "Hig" is the object of the most intense devotion from the fair co-ed chemists, who continually rave over his splendid qualities. The best part of it is that every word of it is true. "Hig" is one of the biggest men in college in every sense of the word. He simply radiates cheerfulness, kindness and courtesy to everyone. As for knowledge, it would be hard to discover what he doesn't know. There is one funny thing about him. He says it would be hard to imagine how big he might have been if he hadn't been kept on half rations since infancy. However, we know that his big body is the external covering. of a bigger soul. Here's to you, "Hig," may you never grow smaller.

Born Auburn, Maine, Sept. 9, 1892; Edward Little High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Deutscher Verein (4); Chairman of Executive Committee (4); Jordan Scientific Society (3, 4); President (4); Mathematics (3, 4); Universalist; Democrat; majors, Chemistry and Mathematics; Assistant in Chemistry (4); Degree, B.S.; intended occupation, chemist; address, 43 Winter St., Auburn, Maine.

Jan. 5. College opens.

HELEN MAY HILTON

Ladies and gentlemen, right this way, please. Behold a human being who has taken every one of Railroad Gould's courses and lived thru them. Now please don't advertise the following fact, unless you want to ruin Prof. Gould's reputation: She has actually got A to him. This in itself ought to stamp her as an unusually brilliant student, and indeed she is. History isn't her only accomplishment, however. She is a talented pianist, a social and literary light, and a jolly girl in general. More than this, Helen is one of those girls whom you are glad to number among your friends and classmates, and one of whom we have great expectations in the future.

Born Lewiston, Maine, April 9, 1894; Phillips High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Glee Club pianist (3, 4); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); Seniority (4); Die Deutsche Gesellschaft (4); Student, Alumni Editor; Vice-President of Class (4); Assistant in History and Geology (4); General Scholarship Prize (1, 2, 3); Senior Exhibition; Congregational; Republican; majors, History and German; thesis subject, "Emperor William II. and His Model, the Great Elector;" Class Day, Historian; degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Machias, Maine.

JAN. 6. "Sol" Miner passes up a dance.

FLORENCE MAY HOOPER

"Pug"

"Where can a perfect woman be found?" Ask Joe! Certainly "Puggie" is fortunate in having some one who fully appreciates all her virtues. However, "There are others" who love her. We hold our breath in admiration to the girl who completed her college course in but a little over three years, and got "A" in almost everything. "Puggie" is a genius at entertaining, both individually and collectively, as her success on Enkuklios executive board clearly shows. She can also play hockey and skate, which latter sport she especially enjoys. She went out west during her Sophomore year; but of course she couldn't stay from us. Her sunny disposition and ready wit have brightened many a dull hour at Rand Hall.

Born Raymond, Maine, Jan. 4, 1894; Gorham High School, 1911; entered Bates, September, 1911; Athletic Association; Hockey Team (4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Seniority (4); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Enkuklios (4); Executive Committee; Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Missionary Committee (1); Bible Study (3); Meetings (4); Methodist; Republican; majors, History, Latin; thesis subject, "The Education of the Roman Child;" intended occupation, teaching (?); address, Gorham, Maine.

Jan. 8. Wm. Hodge—Road to Happiness.

MAUD HOWARD

"Maudie"

Maud's one ditty which sounded so pretty was "How happy could I be with either charmer were t'other dear charmer away."

Maud certainly trains her charmers to the n'th degree. Ken was always handy escorting Maud to and from Glee Club rehearsals. Maud's fate is geography. She has so drilled Ken in the lay o' the land o' Lewiston that he can find his way anywhere in the dark nights, and stay out on the sidewalk alternating between shivering and desperate warning whistles, while Maud calmly observes to us innocents, wondering at this "Romeo and Juliet" scene,

> "I hear a voice you cannot hear
> Which says I must not stay,
> I see a hand you cannot see
> Which beckons me away."

Born Lewiston, Maine, June, 1893; Jordan High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association; Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Manager (4); Pianist (4); Mandolin Club Pianist (3); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Poster Committee (3); Eurosophia (1, 2, 3); Executive Board (2); Vice-President Larfeneeta (4); Mirror Board Artist; Enkuklios (4); Seniority (4); Vice-President of Class (1); Baptist; Republican; majors, English and German; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 44 Wood Street, Lewiston, Me.

Jan. 10. Cicero spends a week end with his room-mates.

WINNIFRED FRANCES JEWELL

"Winnie"

This little Jewell, tho small, is a rare one. Our class baby, and yet the most brilliant of us all. Biologically speaking, she is the cause of Howard's inspiration in Zoölogy, his perspiration in trying to find collar buttons, so they won't have to be late to the W. C. A. lectures, and we are quite sure that even Howard's respiration would be seriously interfered with should anything happen to "Winnie." In the last two years he has managed the men's tennis courts, and in collaboration with Winifred has guarded the Rand Hall courts from 5.30 till 7 every pleasant morning. But in all seriousness, there is no member in our class whose sweet, modest ways and real loveableness we would miss more than Winifred's.

Born Merrimac, Mass., Jan. 6, 1895; Merrimac High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Basketball team (2, 3); made numerals (2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4), Cabinet (2, 3, 4); Treasurer (2, 3, 4); Piæria (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); Secretary of Seniority (4); Junior Exhibition; Secretary of Class (4); Prohibition League (4); Sophomore Essay Prize; Methodist; majors, German, Mathematics and Biology; thesis subject, "Goethe the Scientist;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching (?); address, Merrimac, Mass.

Jan. 14. Bates Glee Club Concert in Lewiston.

HERBERT S. JEWETT

"Herb"

Any one desiring rooms in a spacious, well ventilated, and excellently managed hotel, will make no mistake in applying to Herbert Jewett, proprietor of the Tavern. Yes, Herb is an O. K. manager, and if we haven't recommended him sufficiently, we will refer you to Bob Ott's girls. No, sir, no country bumpkin is Herb. Yet they say he doesn't fit where mirrors are not allowed. No doubt, Herb is destined for a wonderful future.

Born Dexter, Maine; Dexter High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Y. M. C. A.; Polymnia; Baptist; Progressive; major, German; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, Dentistry.

Jan. 16. Pete Nash is dubbed "Rabbi" by Foxy Jordan, because of his brilliant recitation in Hebrew.

FRED ROBIE JOHNSTON

"JOHN"

Few men have observed nature sufficiently to have it become a part of their personality. Johnston is a man of the Maine woods, born and bred among its hills and lakes. Wherever he goes, he will carry their influence and where you will find Johnston, you will find a true sport. Altho "John" did not enter with us, it did not take him long to find a warm place with 1915. But a glance at his room shows that he has a heart big enough for both the old and the new. His classmates will always remember him as a man mighty cordial; but entirely dependent upon others for amusement. To gain the friendship of Johnston is to get something ever to be treasured.

Born Fort Fairfield, Maine; Ricker Classical Institute, 1907; entered Bates, 1909; entered 1915 Junior year; made "B" Track (2); Numerals (1, 4); Aroostook Club, Secretary and Treasurer (2); Vice-President (3,; President (4); 'Varsity Club; Congregationalist; Republican; majors, French and German; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Masardis, Maine.

JAN. 18. The Glee Club leaves for its Massachusetts Trip.

LOUIS JORDAN

"Louie" or "Foxy"

Μῆνιν ἄειδε Θεά Πμλιάδεω Ιορδιναος

(Sing, muse, of the son of Jordan.)

To some of us, whose dense heads were not intended for Greek and Latin, Louis came as a special dispensation of Providence. It was a matter of course that he picked up the Freshman Greek prize, and the scholarship prize, which he has kept thruout his course. During his Senior year he has lived a life of affluence under the benefits of the Coe scholarship. This merited honor has also made it possible for him to pay frequent visits to his "FOLKS" near Portland or Woodfords—we are not certain which. If all our classmates were as regular in writing to their "folks" as Louis, there would be more work for the minister when 1915 graduates. Louis's thirst for knowledge could not be "satiated" in the field of the classics, so he has entered into the realm of science, and is spending his last days here in instructing "Wats" and "Foxy" on the finer points of Chemistry. We hope that Louis will be able to enjoy the privilege of the Rhodes scholarship as he passed the examination with honors. At any case we have a man here who will be a leader in education. Here's to an unassuming but sterling personality.

Born Bethel, Maine, May 28, 1894; Thornton Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Indian Club drill (1); Athletic Association; Musical Association (1, 2, 3, 4), Treasurer (4); Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A., Executive Committee; Piæria (2, 3, 4); Vice-President (3); President (4); Roger Williams Association (4); Jordan Scientific (4); Local Editor of Student; Artist of Mirror; Ivy Day Committee; Junior Exhibition; Class Treasurer (4); Assistant in Chemistry and Geology (4); Freshman Greek Prize; General Scholarship Prize (2, 3); Coe Scholarship (4); Congregationalist; Republican; majors, Chemistry, Greek, and Latin; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Woodfords, Maine.

Jan. 20. Union Meeting of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

IDA FLORINE KIMBALL

"KIM"

"When she won't, she won't,
And when she will, will she?"

But of one thing we can always be sure: She will never miss the chance to "put one over" regardless of person or place. Her occupations and diversities in college have been many. In athletics "Kim" has done good work in whatever she has come out for. Her scholarship is of undoubted excellence. Her heart affairs are innumerable and increasing; but "my heart is of the India rubber variety and rebounds easily." One of the latest Rand Hall publications is a "Who's Who" of "Kim's" many admirers. Notwithstanding her ventures into co-education she still finds time to be one of the jolliest and most companionable girls of 1915.

Born Sawyer's Island, Me., Sept. 9, 1892; Morse High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Baseball Team (2); Basketball Team (2); Track (3); Captain Girls' Track Team (3); Manager of Track (4); Numerals (1, 2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Treasurer of Walking Club (3); Executive Board (4); Y. W. C. A. Membership Commitee (1); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Rand Hall House Committee (3); Enkuklios (4); Seniority (4); Current Events (1, 2, 3); Student Editor of Locals; Freshman and Sophomore Prize Division; Assistant in Geology (4); Congregational; Progressive; major, German; thesis subject, "Character Study of Gretchen;" intended occupation, teaching; address, 124 Bedford St., Bath, Me.

JAN. 22. Girls' Musical Concert at Gray.

LEWIS BERT KNIGHT

"Lou"

1915 has many men who are brainy, many who are musical, and some who are strenuous "co-eds." Behold, here is the combination of all three. The first two qualities, we all know he possesses, but he specializes in the third. Why does he do it? Perhaps he is patterning after that little maxim that "Sammy" gave us in German:

"Käm' ich in ein andres Städchen Hab ich da ein andres Mädchen," or perhaps he is keeping in training for his future occupation. During his Sophomore year he spent $4.00 for calla lilies for a certain young lady at Rand Hall. This shows his kind heart. This is a good quality to possess and surely useful in "Lou's" chief occupation. "Lou" is right there, however, when it comes to studies, and we expect great things from him in the future.

Born Limestone, Maine, July 25, 1893; Limestone High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Musical Association (1, 2, 3); Vice-President (3); Band (1, 2, 3); Eurosophia (1, 2, 3, 4), Treasurer (2), Executive Committee (3, 4); Parker Hall Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Aroostook Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Committee; Politics Club (3, 4); Executive Committee (3); 2d Vice-President (4); Methodist; Democrat; major, History; thesis subject, "Our Insular Service and South America;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, business; address, Limestone, Maine.

JAN. 23. Enkuklios takes a trip to California.

URBAN HENRY LAYTON

"Layte"

Of the conduct of this man we could get very little information, but we guess on the whole it is passing. "Layte," you are quite an addition to the Class of 1915. A minister with a twinkle in his eye, and a big bluff to go along with it, is quite certain to make things move his way. At any rate, we will never be sorry for adopting this raven-locked youth. However, we naturally expect you to reciprocate, so for the sake of 1915, be careful.

Born Nova Scotia, April 29, 1882; Mt. Alliston Academy, 1902; entered Bates 1915; Graduate of Boston University School of Theology; Maine Conference of M. E. Clergymen; Republican; majors, Philosophy, Sociology, and English; thesis subject, "Psychology of the Dull Mind;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, clergyman; address, Lisbon Falls, Maine.

Jan. 27. Schneider lives up to his ideals by attending chapel.

JESSIE AURELIA LEIGHTON

"JETTY"

Another demure miss, you say? "Jetty" does look demure in a picture, but appearances are deceptive. "Jetty's" most important course is co-education, a three-hour course with extensive lab. periods. She is a talented pianist and singer. Her interest in all kinds of organized sports has brought her considerable attention from the physical director in times past. As to the future, she smilingly declines to take us into her confidence more than to say she doesn't think she will teach. Doubtless her wide experience in letter-writing and telephone calls will not fail to qualify her for an excellent position as private secretary "across the water." Her lively wit and love of mischief, together with her winning manner have made her especially popular with her classmates.

Born Lewiston, Maine, March 22, 1894; Jordan High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); Larfenceta Club (3, 4); Universalist; majors, German, English; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Faust Legend before Goethe;" Class Day Prophecy for Girls; intended occupation, teaching; address, Wilton, Maine.

JAN. 28. Day of Prayer. La Vive l'Empire.

WELCOME WILLIAM McCULLOUGH

"Mac"

"Mac" hails from the good old state of Massachusetts, which has sent out many illustrious scholars, and in its yearly quota to her cause, she did not forget Bates and old 1915. "Mac" is a studious fellow and has never spent much time in frequenting Rand Hall. The only time he is found there or elsewhere is when he hears of something to eat. Perhaps this is due to the fact that he has lived most of his life in the vicinity of the "bean" town. For a jolly fellow and one who is always in for a good time, we'll have to enter you among the foremost.

Born Lynn, Mass., March 31, 1892; Saugus High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Manager of Hockey (3); Numerals in Baseball and Track; Indian Prize Club Drill (1); Piæria; Parker Hall Association Executive Committee (3); Massachusetts Club (3, 4); Politics Club (3, 4); Treasurer (4); Class Treasurer (3); Catholic; Republican; major, English; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, business; address, Box 5, Saugus, Mass.

JAN. 29. "Poppy" is requested to leave the dining room.

HANNAH FRANCES MALONE

"Loney"

Hark! a thrilling scream pierces the midnight air, then another, and a most horrible thump. Don't bother to get up. No one's being killed. Merely one of "Loney's" wonderful dreams striving for "self-expression" according to Rousseau. This is a decided advantage, however, for it keeps us in trim for midnight fire-drills. Every one loves to hear her gentle voice ringing thru the halls when acting as proctor in Billy's absence. "Loney" has one idiosyncracy, her difficulty in pronouncing the letter "R." This is her favorite exclamation "Wun over to Mr. Wamsdell's and get a Wat."

Laying all joking aside Loney has displayed great efficiency in every branch of college work she has undertaken. One of our best students and executives in various organizations with which she has been connnected.

Born Ellsworth, Maine, August 15, 1894; Ellsworth High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association, Secretary (2); Assistant Treasurer (3); Treasurer (4); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Executive Committee (2); Rand Hall House Committee (3); Seniority (4); Secretary of Girls' Walking Club; Enkuklios, Chairman of Executive Committee; Catholic; Republican; major, English; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Poetry of Kipling;" intended occupation, teaching; address, 11 Court St., Ellsworth, Maine.

Feb. 1. Dunbar Male Quartet.

ALLAN WILLIAM MANSFIELD

"Manse"

This man elected a course of "Pom," "Foxy" and "R. R. Gould" at the same time. This is proof positive that he is a student of the first order. The ultimate definition of the ideally educated man contained in Hume's "Philosophy of Education" describes this gentleman admirably. Que voulez-vous encore? Lest we appear extravagant, we will admit (reluctantly) that he has a failing or two. He is a frequenter of the local Rialto. He receives voluminous epistles written on the most beautifully tinted blue paper. At the same time, he has been contending with McCullough for favor in the eyes of a sweet young thing in the Freshman Class. At present "Betty" is said to be about one jump in advance. But then Allan always starts at scratch anyway, and most always makes up his handicap which is enough to say about any one.

Born Jonesport, Maine, Oct. 6, 1892; Westbrook Seminary, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; 'Varsity Relay Team (4); Manager of Class Baseball Team (1, 2); made "B" in Track; Numerals in Track and Baseball; Prize Indian Club Drill; Y. M. C. A.; Piæria (1, 2, 3); Executive Committee; Parker Hall Association; Sophomore Prize Division; Congregational; Democrat; majors, German; thesis subject, "Pan Germanism;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, dentist; address, Jonesport, Maine.

Feb. 2. Brad Swift has the sweetest little watch dog.

WILLIAM FREDERICK MANUEL

"Bill"

"First the blade, then the ear, and then the full corn in the ear." "Bill" came down from Houlton a small, shy, unassuming chap; with his sheepskin, he goes out a husky grown man. Now you understand that ear of corn is no reflection upon "Bill," or his home town—not at all—they grow potatoes up there. He only needs to spring that boyish grin and chuckle in order to get away with murder. This charming smile has broken many hearts, but William reads Kipling, and fights shy of all the "Maggies." But here's hoping that when the female of the species does come along, "Bill" will be willing, for he deserves the best that is going.

Born Houlton, Maine, April 8, 1894; Houlton High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made "B" in Football (2, 3, 4); numerals in Track (3, 4); Baseball (3); Prize Indian Club Drill (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.; Parker Hall Association; Aroostook Club, Secretary (2), Treasurer (3), Vice-President (4); Jordan Scientific Society; 'Varsity Club (4); Student Arbitration Board (4); Ivy Day Committee; Class President (4); Assistant in Gymnastics (2, 3, 4); Baptist; Republican; majors, English, Chemistry, Biology; Degree, A.B.; address, 37 Franklin Avenue, Houlton, Maine.

Feb. 3. Exams begin.

JAMES LAURENCE MEADER

"Larry"

(With apologies to Irving Berlin)

"I was growing very fond of Virginia,
When along came Mary,
Along came Mary.
I thot an awful lot of Edna
When Elizabeth came along
My head began to merry-go-round.
I lost my head to Mildred,
I thot I was in love to stay
And along came Jessie.
And to tell the truth
She stole my heart away.

This list does not claim to be comprehensive. "Larry" has kept pretty well in the lime-light since he came to college, his two chief pursuits being music and ladies. He has been active in all the musical organizations, and in his last year he gained admission to the "Rand Hall Family Circle" and tho he was rather late on the start, he seems to be making up for lost time. It is no use to waste delicate humor on "Larry," for he doesn't get it readily, so we will content ourselves by saying that he is one of 1915's best; and that is saying a lot.

Feb. 5. Dr. Britan has to get out of town by 4 P.M.

NORMAN DANIEL MEADER

"Norm"

Here is a man of whom we may be justly proud. He is one of the few musicians of the class, and ranks second to none unless it be his brother Laurence. Norman can fully appreciate a joke if it is on the other fellow. But in spite of this fact, he is a determined youth, and will certainly succeed in whatever he undertakes.

Born Durham, N. H., Nov. 24, 1894; Rochester High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association; Musical Association; Glee Club (3, 4); Mandolin Club (3, 4); Orchestra (3, 4); Y. M. C. Feb. 7. Bill Manuel pledges $5.00 to the "Home for Little Wanderers."

GERTRUDE MERRILL

Would you think it? But here is an abridged edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica with 45 per cent. given up to the explanation and interpretation of Faust. She an ardent supporter of Cheney House, and is a skilful gymnast. Music, too, distinguishes this member of our class, for her voice is heard in the choir loft, and in the glee club. We all know her for her smiling countenance, quick wit, merry laugh, and optimistical outlook.

If by chance you need a rhyme,
Do not fail to ask her at any time,
For we know this maid in any language
Can make up rhymes to great advantage.

Born Gray, Maine, March 21, 1893; Pennell Institute and Central State Normal School, Mt. Feb. 8. English Exam. refreshments of sweet chocolate served.

GLADYS MERRILL

"Glad"

What wonders this "little village of the plain" has produced! We are fortunate in having one of them with us. Truly, Gladys is some kind of an artist—we forget what they call them—but when she recites her winning way often takes the professor's mind away from the facts which the question demanded. It isn't so much what she says as the way she says it. We do hate to admit our weak points and still, if we act so as to overemphasize them, how can we hope that people will overlook them. Gladys, your pleasant little steps on your way home from college seems to suggest: "A man, a man, my kingdom for a man."

Born Auburn, Maine, September 20, 1891; Edward Little High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios; Larfeneeta Club; Freshman and Sophomore Prize Division; Universalist; Progressive; majors, English History, German; thesis subject, "The Place of War in History;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 143 Pleasant Street, Auburn, Maine.

Feb. 10. "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Billy makes a startling announcement.

UNA MAE MILLS

"Millsy"

Quiet, reserved, and unapproachable was the verdict once, but we who know her now know that all this was but "Millsy's" natural modesty. For is she not one of our foremost athletes, prominent in every sport! And, as President of the Girls' Athletic Association, who could present questions in a more businesslike way, or rouse enthusiasm for a new movement more successfully? Her zeal and thoroness are intense, and not at all belied by her complexion. We all agree that we could not get along without our little sunny-haired Una.

Born Dunbarton, N. H., 1892; Concord High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Basketball Team (2, 3, 4); Numerals; Hockey (1, 2, 3, 4); Baseball (1, 2, 3, 4); Volleyball (2), Captain (2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Secretary (2), Vice-President (3), President (4); Y. W. C. A. H.

Feb. 11. Daniel Poling speaks for Prohibition.

HOWARD ROOT MINER

"Sol"

Otherwise known as "Sol," a youth who finds difficulty in remaining in one place two hours at a time. Born across the balmy seas, this may be the reason why he has such a roaming spirit. He is considered a promising candidate for work in South America, for he finds Spanish a course very much to his liking here at college.

"Sol" is there when it comes to a good time especially when he does not have to think of recitations. It is hard to tell where "Sol" spends his evenings, but very frequently he can be found in his room after 1 A.M., plugging for recitations. When it comes to sizing "Sol" up, you will find that he has a warm heart always ready to help and always in for a good time, and as a friend he is one among a hundred.

Born Midnapore, India; Oneonta, N. Y., and Gardiner High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; made Numerals (1); Prize Drill (3); major, Mathematics; Degree, B.S.; address, Whitefield, N. H.

Feb. 12. Class of 1915 sends advanced delegates to the Panama Exposition. Lincoln's Birthday.

ERNEST MERRIL MOORE

"Monte"

Monte dropped out of college for a year in order to graduate with the illustrious Class of 1915. We are proud of our acquisition, for in the line of a ready fund of rich jokes he has Mark Twain stopped by several miles. The regular boarders at the Commons consider it a part of the day's routine to stop long enough to hear the head waiter's latest edition. The most trying task of his college life is to stay awake in classes; he has a scheduled list of retainers whose duty it is to prod him at the psychological moment when some professor is inconsiderate enough to interrupt his siestas with a question. Some day we expect to see him mayor of the metropolis of Gardiner if the job does not call for an undue amount of exertion. Monte's optimism makes him easily one of the most popular men of the class.

Born at Randolph, Maine, Dec. 9, 1891; fitted at Gardiner High School; entered Bates, 1910; made "B" in Football (2, 3, 4); Captain Football (4); made "B" in Baseball (3, 4); member Athletic Association; Y. M. C. A.; President Student Council (4); President Parker Hall Association (4); Universalist; Republican; majors, History, English; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Progressive Party;" intended occupation, teaching; address, Gardiner, Maine.

Feb. 13. Valentine Party at Dr. Britan's. Dr. Britan's kisses very popular.

BARBARA NICHOLS MORRELL

"Barbie"

Who would recognize in this mischievous dimpling maiden, the demure, proper little miss who became one of us four years ago? Barbie has certainly lived up to her Freshman reputation for studiousness, but she has also found opportunity to play hockey and basketball, as well as to indulge in other (?) social recreations. Tho still so quiet as to be at times quite inconspicuous, she is ever ready to take active part in all sorts of good times, and frequently brings a spice of humor with her.

Born at Merrimac, Mass., Oct. 15, 1893; fitted at Merrimac High School; entered Bates, 1911; member of Athletic Association; Captain of Volleyball Team (3); Hockey Championship Team (4); Piærian (1, 2, 3); Member of Enkuklios; Congregationalist; majors, German, English; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "The Passion Play;" intended occupation, teaching; address, Merrimac, Mass.

Feb. 15. Mullen is seen wearing a flannel shirt.

JOSEPH LANGDON MOULTON

"Joe"

Here's a man with a history. We wish that a whole book were ours to do him justice. If we could use one word to sum Joe up, it would be "all-round." His college interests have been many and varied. He is a charter member of the co-educational club of 1915. Athletics, studies, music, ladies, night schools, social service, missionary work and a score of other activities, have been exhausted by this efficient youth. Joe was the leader of a student deputation band of five that went on a foreign voyage and succeeded in converting five young ladies. (N. B. This is really a joke. Ask "Pug." It hasn't percolated thru Joe's consciousness yet.) That is but a sample of Joe's influence over the fair sex. Keep it up, Joe, and you'll be a howling success in your Y. W. C. A. work. We forget, it's Y. M. C. A. No matter, your winning personality will always smooth your way to prosperity.

Born at Middle Haddam, Conn., Jan. 2, 1892; fitted at Northbridge High School, Mass.; entered Bates in 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); made Numerals in Track (1, 2, 3); Glee Club (3, 4); Mandolin Club (3, 4); Y. M. C. A., Chairman Meetings Committee (3), Chairman Social Service Committee (4); Northfield Delegate (1, 2, 3); Roger Williams Hall Association (2, 3); Parker Hall Association (4); Eurosophian (2, 3); Chairman Executive Committee (3); Dramatic Club (4); Politics Club (4); Personal Editor on Mirror Board; Junior Exhibition; Senior Exhibition; Class Chaplain (4); Fourth Prize Temperance Contest (3); Class Day Chaplain; Congregationalist; Republican; majors, German, Biblical Literature; thesis subject, "The Peace of Righteousness;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, Y. M. C. A. Secretary; address, Buckland, Mass.

Feb. 17. Lent begins—easy on the Meccas.

GEORGE BURLEIGH MOULTON

"Burleigh"

In spite of his troubles, Burleigh is apparently always the same. Some way or other, he has the happy faculty of turning all misfortune into a huge joke. And when he is off to see "Foxy" or started for the "quiet little city along the Kennebec," he is attired in a smile, certain to be a "cure all" for both grouch and pouting lips.

It seems queer that our all-wise professors must have knowledge eloquently poured forth, in a savory and flowery manner, to fully appreciate the depth of a man. Nevertheless, learning and ability are not always thus displayed, and we all continue to believe Burleigh has both.

We must admire him for the manner in which he handled football. Few managers give perfect satisfaction to every one, and that Burleigh did this is certain proof of good judgment, a quick brain, and a mighty good disposition.

Born at Middle Haddam, Conn., June 20, 1890. Fitted at Northbridge High School, Mass., and Worcester Academy; Manager of Football (4); made "B" in Football (4); made Numerals Baseball (2); member of Polymnia Society; Student Council (3); Massachusetts Club; 'Varsity Club; Parker Hall Association; Class Treasurer (2); religious preference, Congregationalist; Republican; majors, French Chemistry; thesis subject, "Scientific Agriculture;" intended occupation, business; home address, Buckland, Mass.

Feb. 19. Y. M. C. A. Conference at Bates.

HENRY PIERCE MULLEN

"Hank" "Pete"

Oh! here's the real thing! Immaculate and trim he struts about the campus with a scornful curl of his lip and an upward turn of his nose. Who is he? Why, he's the famous cynic and scorner of woman. By his cool, sarcastic reasoning he condemns her to eternal weak-mindedness and light-heartedness. He has ample proof of all his statements. His arguments are conclusive. He has even found the exception that proves the rule. Henry's case is a sad one and were it not for the aforementioned exception we would give him up for lost.

Born at Somersworth, N. H., July 24, 1891; fitted at Somersworth High School; graduated 1909; entered Bates, 1911; made Numerals in Baseball (2); Football (2); Prize Indian Club Drill (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.; Eurosophian (3); Parker Hall Assotion; Dramatic Club (4); Politics Club (4); Artist on Mirror Board; Ivy Day Speaker, "Co-eds;" Senior Exhibition Committee; Catholic; Democrat; majors, Latin, Philosophy; thesis subject, "The Debt of Modern Epigrammatists to Martial;" Address to Halls and Campus; Degree, B.S.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 253 High Street, Somersworth, N. H.

Feb. 20. Bates Needle Club entertains Senior Girls.

FORREST SYLVANUS NASH

"Pete"

Forrest Sylvanus Nash—that name is enough to blight the hopes of any fair, young, life. Probably Sylvanus refers to the bushy crop of luxuriant hair which adorns the top of this young man's pate. At least we have tried to overcome the fearful odds under which he labors as "Pete," "Beau Nash," and "Rabbi Nash" will testify. Pete acquired his fondness for study in the intellectual atmosphere of his native town, Cambridge; but unfortunately he lost the atmosphere in a smoking car on the way up from Boston. Pete is one of the leading candidates for the title of "Sunny Jim"—this because he worries so much over his rank card—at any rate, "Beau," you earned the right to social leadership in our 400 so we salaam before you.

Born at North Abington, Mass., April 28, 1891; fitted at Rindge Manual Training School, Cambridge, Mass.; graduated 1910; entered Bates, 1911; made Numerals in Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Athletic Association; Band (3, 4); Glee Club (4); Mandolin Club (4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Parker Hall Association; Massachusetts Club; Atheist; Democrat; majors, Chemistry, Biology; thesis subject, "Sir William Ramsay;" Degree, B.S.; address, 213 Howard Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Feb. 22 Washington's Birthday.

VIOLA BLISS NEVENS

"Odie"

"A guardian angel o'er his life presiding, Doubling his pleasures and his cares dividing."

Whether "Duke" is hungry, ill, or studious or in trouble, he can find solace with "Ode" for she is

"A perfect woman, nobly planned
To warn, to comfort or command."

So much does one belong to the other that even Monie cannot but allude to the pair figuratively in his English classes.

Born at Lewiston, Maine, May 24, 1891; fitted at Jordan High School, Lewiston; entered Bates in 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Hockey Championship Team (3, 4); Eurosophian (1, 2, 3); Secretary (2, 3); President of Lafeneeta Club; Seniority; Junior Exhibition; Universalist; majors, English, Chemistry, Mathematics; thesis subject, "The Mystery of Personality;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 40 Wood Street, Lewiston, Maine.

Feb. 28. Bob Ott and his company arrive in Lewiston.

GENEVA ADELLE PAGE

"Geneva"

Look with awe and reverence upon the genius of our class. Upon a ten minutes' notice she can compose a poem an any subject from hockey to a hymn. Most geniuses are exclusive and self-centered, but not so with Gen! Who ever asked a favor of her when it was not granted, from going to church to tending telephone. She produces marvelous satires for Spofford Club, she rapidly sails thru the most ponderous books "Monie" can suggest, wins fame as a champion debater, and then she cheerfully sallies forth to Hockey and Basketball, as light-hearted and unconcerned as if she had never weighed deep thoughts in her brain. In a quiet and unassuming way, Geneva has come to be one of the most valuable assets of 1915.

Born at Bucksport, Maine, Oct. 24, 1892; fitted at East Maine Conference Seminary, Bucksport; graduated 1910; entered Bates 1911; Baseball Championship Team (3); Track (3); Hockey (1, 2, 3, 4); Championship Team (4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A.; Polymnian (1, 2, 3); Spofford Club (4); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); Current Events Club (1, 2, 3); made Sophomore Champion Debating Team; Freshman Prize Division; Senior Exhibition; Methodist; Republican; majors, German, English; thesis subject, "Eichendorff's Use of Nature;" Class Day Ode; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Bucksport, Maine.

Mar. 3. Chapman Concert.

ORMAN CLARENCE PERKINS

"Perk"

"Perk" is one of the leading candidates for the honor of being the handsomest man in the class—losing out to his room-mate by a close vote. He is one of the charter members of the Woolworth Club; always ready to lend a hand in the betterment of social life at Bates; over in Auburn he is known as a prominent club man and cotillion leader. Whether in the biology lab, or on the dance floor, he is a firm believer in thoroness. But like a real man of the world he plays no favorites; knowing that variety is the spice of life. We anticipate that the end of the baseball season will add to his many accomplishments a record-breaking career as baseball manager.

Born April 23, 1892; fitted at Edward Little High School, Auburn; graduated, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Manager Baseball (4); made Numerals in Baseball and Track; Deutscher Verein (4); Jordan Scientific Society (4;) Member of Executive Committee; Prize Division Freshman Declamations; Jordan Scholarship; majors, Biology, Philosophy; thesis subject, "Paths and Portals of Contagion and Infection;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, sanitary engineering; address, Leeds Junction.

Mar. 6. Freshman Prize Speaking—Burlesque programmes in chapel.

EDWIN FRANCIS PIDGEON

"Pidg" "Eddie"

It is not always the big man who makes things go. A little fellow with the right kind of stuff in him is bound to make things hum, and such a one is Eddie. He can do anything from rubbing down a green Freshman to giving medical advice to Coach "Purry." For first hand information on any subject, Eddie is an authority. He can pull "A's" from any Professor in college without lifting a finger. We are sure that whatever he undertakes he will meet with great success.

Born at Dorchester, Mass.; fitted at Rindge Technical School; graduated 1910; entered Bates 1911; Football Team, made "B" (4); made Numerals (3, 4); Manager Class Track Team; made Numerals in Track (1, 2, 3, 4); made Numerals in Baseball (2); Athletic Association; Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Leader Mandolin Club (4); Polymnian; Parker Hall Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Massachusetts Club (2), Secretary; Intramural Baseball League, President (3, 4), Secretary (2); Sophomore Prize Debate; Assistant in Gymnasium; majors, Chemistry; thesis subject, "Relation of War to Chemistry;" Degree, B.S.; home address, 237 Columbia Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Mar. 7. Judge Webber talks to the Politics Club.

NORMAN CUSHMAN RICHARDSON

"Rich"

Here is a champion featherweight. But altho he holds the record of being the lightest one in the class he's got lots of "pep," and when it comes to a game of tennis his talent crops out in a very convincing manner. Rich is a quiet, unassuming little lad and hasn't had much to do with the fair sex, but he can't make us believe he's unattached, for a young man of his stamp must surely have been captured long before this time. Rich is one of the few men of the class who has brass enough to tell us that he intends to go into business. We are sure that in whatever he undertakes, he will be a great success.

Born at Waterville, Maine, April 12, 1892; fitted at Hebron Academy; entered Bates, 1911; Captain 'Varsity Tennis Team (4); made "B" in tennis (3); made numerals in track (3); Broadsword Drill (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Roger Williams Hall Association (4); Deutscher Verein (4); Secretary; Baptist; major, German; thesis subject, "Growth of Socialism in Germany;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Hebron, Maine.

Mar. 8. Prof. Gould slips up on the dates of the presidents.

EDITH MAY RIDEOUT

"Deedie"

Deedie is rather a sensible looking girl, isn't she? You would never think that she used to be frivolous. Why! in our Freshman year she—we hesitate to say it—she was almost a flirt. Sophomore year brought a speedy end (?) to that. She became deeply interested in poetry with special reference to Maine poets; Henry Wadsworth Longfellow seems to be her favorite. Strange to say, it is not his serious works which claim her attention. It is when Henry Wadsworth Longfellow chances to be a "kidder" that Deedie waxes most enthusiastic. So far, there is only one thing in which she has made a flat failure, and that is, in trying to find out what are "Railroad" Gould's views on politics. Should she ever do this, there would be no question as to who made Norway famous.

Born at Norway, Maine, September 17, 1894; fitted at Norway High School; entered Bates, 1911; Basketball (1); made numerals (1); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A.; Chairman Religious Meetings Committee (4); Polymnian (1, 2, 3); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); Judge of Sophomore Declamations (4); made Freshman and Sophomore Prize Divisions; Secretary of Class (1); Congregationalist, Republican; majors, English, History; thesis subject, "Ministerial Responsibility in Europe;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Norway, Maine.

Mar. 9. Lewis Knight starts missionary work among the Greeks.

MARY LILLIAN ROBERTS

"Lady Roberts"

What can we say about Mary? Words are insufficient to do her justice. She is a sure cure for the blues and worry, an inveterate skating fiend, and what she doesn't know about flinch and checkers (?) isn't worth knowing. Ask Billy how Lady Roberts invariably entertains Poppy during their extra (?) time. It is a shame to waste so much energy, but it doesn't pay to let studies interfere with your college course, does it, Mary? In spite of her usually sunny disposition, Mary has a disturbing tendency to worry over her studies which has caused her to lose flesh at an alarming rate, but at present she maintains enough of her dignity so that even Prex has mistaken her for the Dean, which also has its advantages. In addition to all her brilliant accomplishments in athletics, music, and studies, she is an expert in doing the lame duck, fox trot, maxixe and other forbidden æsthetic stunts.

Born at Somersworth, N. H., September 19, 1892; graduated from English High School, Providence, R. I., in 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Baseball (2, 3, 4); Championship Team (3); Basketball (2, 3, 4); Championship Team (3); Glee Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Leader of Club (4); Mandolin Club (2, 3); Pianist; Member of College Choir (3, 4); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); thesis subject, "Womanhood in Shakespeare;" Member of Cabinet (9); Enkuklios (4); Treasurer; Plymnia (4); religion, Baptist; majors, English and German; intended occupation, teaching; home address, Lisbon Falls.

March 10. Bates Indoor Meet—Co-eds stay out later than 10 P.M.

SARAH ROSENBLOOM

"Sari"

Students! you know that we have an author in our class! Not long after our graduation from Bates, Sarah is going to compile a book on the subject of Education based on the notes taken in Doc Britan's classes. This will, no doubt, take the place of Prof. Bagley as an authority on the subject. Anyone who knows Sarah cannot fail to have noticed her great determination,

"For if she will, she will, you may depend on't
And if she won't, she won't, and there's an end on't."

Born at Lewiston, Maine, Feb. 24, 1893; graduated from Lewiston High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; member of Athletic Association; Enkuklios; Secretary and Treasurer of "L" Club; religious preference, Jewish; majors, Mathematics, German and French; intended occupation, teaching; Degree, A.B.; address, 210 Park Street, Lewiston, Me.

March 12. Allan forsakes Ivy.

ERNEST LEROY SAXTON

"Sax"

"True worth is in being, not seeming,
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good, not dreaming
Of great things to do by and by."

That Connecticut should have opened her arms, and permitted this man to stray into the north in pursuit of mere "Noll" is a mystery Roy's entrance among us was not more noted than that of many another, but after the first class election he came into the limelight and has been there ever since.

As yet Cupid has nothing on this gentleman, but those who know him best fear for his safety when he is out from the protecting care of the powers that be. Above all, we know him as a good sport and a true friend. If Bates could ever promise success to a man, surely she may well take a chance here.

Born at Meriden, Conn., Sept. 3, 1888; fitted for college at Mount Hermon, was graduated 1911; entered Bates, 1911; member of Athletic Association; Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Vice-President (3); President (4); Executive Committee (1, 2); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Student Council (3, 4); Vice-President; Roger Williams Association; Politics Club (3, 4); Assistant Local Editor of Student (3); 'Varsity Debating Team against Clark and Colgate; Winning Team Against Tufts; Sophomore Prize Debate; Prize Division of Freshman and Sophomore Declamations, won Prize both years; Toastmaster Ivy Day; Junior Exhibition, Second Prize; Senior Exhibition; Class President (1); Chaplain (2); Assistant in Argumentation (3); Baptist; Republican; majors, History, English and German; thesis subject "The Rural Situation in Maine;" Farewell Address; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, ministry; address, 85 East Main Street, Meriden, Conn.

March 15. Tuition due, no postponement for Seniors.

JOHN STARKEY SEAVEY

"Jack" Seav"

You, with an æsthetic sense, gaze to your heart's content. This is Jack Seavey, the best looking man in the class of 1915. No chance, girls, he has already been "copped." This is the explanation of the fact that Jack has a private telephone of his own between College Street and Parker Hall. John is so diligent in his studies that he wished to take his private tutor with him in the Musical Club trips, but conventionality forbade it. Jack is contemplating happy matrimonial bliss in the near future, but he is no longer content to settle down in the dear old farm in New Hampshire. Undoubtedly the co-eds will hate to see such a prize go outside of the class; but the both of you have our best wishes just the same.

Born at Barrington, N. H., 1893; graduated from Austin Cate Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made Numerals, Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Football (4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Glee Club (3, 4); Mandolin Club (3, 4); Manager of Glee and Mandolin Clubs (4); member of Y. M. C. A.; Polymnia; Parker Hall Association; religious preference, Congregationalist; politics, Republican; majors, English and History; Class Day Pipe Oration; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, business; address, Plymouth, N. H.

March 17. Wearing of the Green—Civil War in Parker.

ELMER OWEN SMALL

"Teddy Bear"

"Ted's" grand debut was made on Garcelon Field the day of the "Fresh-Soph" baseball game. The profoundness of this young genius's mind certainly outwitted the older and more experienced men of 1914. Since that day "Ted" has been the best known man on the campus. His performance has been practically continuous, and all who have not seen him in his latest production, "The Monkey and the Flea," have lost a grand opportunity. Those who can remember him as a Freshman togged out in that little Teddy Bear Hat, a bashful youth always doing the wrong thing at the right time, now behold with wonder, the miracle! Four years have turned out this tall, broad-shouldered and thoughtful youth, ever mindful of his friends, and one who does not forget.

Born at Bowdoinham, Maine, May 7, 1896; graduated from Bowdoinham High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; member of Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3,4); Executive Parker Hall Association (2, 3); religious preference, Universalist; political preference, Republican; major, Latin; thesis subject, "Infection and Immunity;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, Medicine; address, Bowdoinham, Maine.

March 18. Girls' Gym Exhibition—Police!

ERNEST LIBBY SMALL

"Ernie"

The predominant trait of Ernie is his unsociable manner. It aggravates the boys tremendously, but it's no use, he won't stay with us, he runs away. Ernie is our track captain, always a fighter, and a hard trainer, and was never known to quit. Being a resident of Lewiston, he knows all the girls and runs a sort of private "Cupid's bureau," all his own. Mighty handy that; nevertheless, "when they meet they shall miss him." Smallie still swears that Brigham Young came from Utah,—your genealogy surprised even us, Old Top. Selah!

Born at Lewiston, Maine, Dec. 22, 1890; graduated from Starkey Seminary, '11; entered Bates, '11; Captain of Class Track Team two years; 'Varsity Track (4); made "B" in Track (3, 4); made Numerals in Baseball, Track and Football; Member of Piæria and Politics Club; First Vice-President of 'Varsity Club; Free Baptist; independent; majors in Chemistry and History; degree, B.S.; thesis subject, "Levoisier;" address, 240 College Street, Lewiston, Maine.

March 18. The curfew does not ring the dawn of day.

ALMA VELENA SMILEY

Oh! Here's "The Lady of the Aroostook," and a royal representative she is. She used to be a jolly good comrade among the girls; but since there has been a man in the case, Smiley has been among the missing. She spent the whole of last summer in demonstrating to a certain ambitious young farmer (pro tem) her skill in the art of cookery. It was very apparent that she was entirely successful. They hold the record for being the most devoted couple at Bates.

Born at Caribou, Maine, October 31, 1892; graduated from Caribou High School, 1909; entered Bates, 1911; Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); Y. W. C. A., (1, 2, 3, 4); Aroostook Club; Polymnia; religious preference, Baptist; majors, German and Mathematics; thesis subject, "Goethe as a Scientist;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Caribou, Maine.

March 20. Enkuklios' big reception—everybody there in their Sunday best

CAMILLA HIGHT SMITH

"Smithy"

"When swift Camilla scours o'er the plain," it is a sure sign that her brain is over-worked, for usually her "little body is a-weary of this great world." That may be so; but who would dare to say that she is not one of the most congenial and popular girls of 1915? She has two chief delights in college; one is for getting an excuse to go home, and the other is listen- to Billy's stories. She is particularly fond of short stories and enjoys immensely telling them to Noldy and Gladys. Smithy is one of the best of our class pianists and mandolin players, and has shown ability in basketball and other sports. She is also a good scholar and manages to work in a fair number of cuts without any serious consequences. Her black eyes and black hair distinguish this fair maid from the majority of the "washed-out blond co-eds at Bates," for which she should be duly thankful. There is no end of the good things that might be said concerning Smithy, but to any one who knows her, it is unnecessary to say that she is a great asset to the class of 1915.

Born at Westbrook, Maine, Jan. 24, 1893; graduated from Westbrook High School, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; Basketball (2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3 4); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 4); Y. W. C. A. Social Committee (1); Social Service (4); Polymnia (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); Seniority (4); Prohibition League; religious preference, Congregational; majors, German and English; Degree, A.B.; address, 741 Main Street, Westbrook, Maine.

March 23. Duke studies high class burlesque.

FREDERICK SMITH

"Fred"

With the addition of this illustrious member, our celebrated family of Smiths is increased by one, thus rounding out the family Triumvirate. Surely our class has certainly done its share towards perpetuating the family name in the annals of Bates. Those of us who knew him very little during his former days at Bates, join with those who had this pleasure, in saying that Fred is not a bad penny returned, but something good left over from the Class of 1914. Smithy and the sanctimonious atmosphere of Roger Williams Hall! Does not one have trouble in reconciling himself to the possibility of such a combination? Studious when occasion demands, a good team player, always a good companion, a "hail fellow well met"—that's Fred.

Born at Meredith, N. H., Feb. 26, 1893; fitted at New Hampton Literary Institute; graduated 1910; entered Bates, 1910; entered Class of 1915 in Senior year; Indian Club Prize Drill (1); Dumb Bell (2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Musical Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3); Banjo Club (3); Y. M. C. A.; Roger Williams Hall Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Vice-President (3); Spofford Club (4); Politics Club (3, 4); Senior Exhibition; major, History; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Meredith, N. H.

March 25. Senior Exhibition. Prexie did not go to sleep.

PAUL REXFORD SMITH

"Paul"

If we had taken a ballot as to who was the quietest, most unassuming chap in the class we are sure that Paul would have carried a unanimous vote. But in spite of this fact, he gets there! His latent powers crop out now and then most unexpectedly and we were not surprised to see him chosen as assistant in the Biological department. Paul is a good-looking fellow and we don't understand why he has shunned the "co-eds" so consistently, but time alone will tell the truth of the matter. So you are going into dentistry! Well, you always were looking for a pull and we hope you will accomplish your purpose.

Born at Belfast, Maine, March 5, 1894; fitted at Belfast High School; entered Bates, 1911; Indian Club Prize Drill (1); Piæria (1, 2, 3), Chairman Executive Committee (3); Jordan Scientific Society (4), Chairman Executive Committee; Assistant in Biology (4); General Scholarship (3); Methodist; Progressive; majors, German, Biology; thesis subject, "Internal Secretions and Harmonies;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, dentistry; address, Belmont Road, Belfast, Maine.

March 26. Easter Recess begins.

CONSTANTINE S. STEPHANIS

"Steve"

Greece has produced many great poets in her day, but behold the latest and greatest of them all. Neither Homer nor Euripides has anything on "Steve" in juggling the meter of a poem. But this is not the greatest thing that can be said of him. It is known to be an actual fact that he once pulled an "A" in one of "Railroad's" courses, a feat of which one might be justly proud. In the limited space that is at our disposal it is not possible to mention all of "Steve's" good points, for they are many and varied. However, we have never regretted the entrance of this young man into our ranks, and we predict for him a successful career in the future.

Born at Thasos, Greece, July 7, 1888; fitted at the American International College at Springfield, Mass.; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals (1); Indian Club Drill (1); Pierian (1, 2, 3); Spofford Club (3, 4); Freshman Prize Division, honorable mention; Ivy Day Ode; Junior Exhibition; General Scholarship Prize; Christian; Democrat; major, Greek; thesis subject, "Scenes from Homeric Life;" Class Day Hymn; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, Law; address, Thasos, Greece.

April 6. Back again—to do as little studying as possible for the rest of the year.

PARKER BURROUGHS STINSON

"Bun"

There is an old saying that there is no small loss without some great gain, and it is not difficult to discover when looking over our roll that one decided gain was made when Bunnie Stinson, formerly of 1913, was entered on our list. "Bun" is not only a student of the highest type, but an athlete of such calibre that he can win an interclass meet on his own individual points alone. He has done it. He can pole vault, high jump, throw discus and put the shot, winning firsts in all events. Can you beat it? Bunnie's smooth disposition and sunny countenance is as "rare as a day in June." He has the distinction of being the only man in Parker Hall to endure mid-years and stormy weather without a frown. Take him all round he is a real "find."

Born at Wiscasset, Maine; fitted at Jordan High School, 1909; entered Class of 1915 in Junior year; made Numerals in Track (1, 2, 3, 4); Y. M. C. A.; Parker Hall Association; "Sons of Rest;" Chairman Class Day Committee; Universalist; Democrat; majors, German, Philosophy; thesis subject, "Evolution of Consciousness;" intended occupation, teaching; degree, A.B.; address, Wiscasset, Maine.

April 7. Jess Willard knocks out Jack Johnson.

ANNIE STUART

"Chick" "Annabell"

Would you think so by her looks? Still at times Annie has shown signs of true pessimism. As she enters a class room you hear a sigh and an "oh dear!" When she comes out you hear an equally audible sigh of relief. Annie is of the good old Scotch Clan of the Stuarts and you should hear her rave on about her family Coat-of-Arms. She is far more fortunate than most of us, her future is already planned. From the depths of that great study—palmistry—to which she is to devote her life time, she has found out that she is going to marry—A Man.

Born at Milton, N. H., 1892; fitted at Jordan High School, Lewiston, Maine; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Polymnian (1, 2, 3); Enkuklios (4); Larfeneeta Club; Congregationalist; Progressive; majors, German, English; Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 81 Elm Street, Lewiston, Maine.

April 8. Bill Manuel becomes a man to-day.

BRADFORD E. SWIFT

"Brad"

We take our hats off to you, Brad. You're the Benedict of the bunch. We admire your haste if we do not mention hers. As you will perceive, his troubles are making him bald. Brad is game for anything from "Button, button, who's got the button?" to a prize-fight. He was a member of the "Woolworth Club," now defunct. Brad is as good an athlete as he is a fellow and that's a whole lot. He can kid a Prof. along better than any one since the memorable Steve, who took the first chance. We all like to go over to Brad's house to study; pipe the study. The attraction is that he always sets 'em up all round. He loves animals and even brings his dog to chapel with him. The said animal very nearly upset the dean's cold mask by his friendliness.

Born at Plymouth, N. H., 1889. Fitted at Bridgewater Normal School; graduated 1913; entered Bates, 1914; made "B" in football (4); Athletic Association (4); Politics Club (4); Assistant in Sociology and Economics; Assistant in Gymnasium; Baptist; Independent; major, Geology; Degree, B.S.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 17 Everett Street, Middleboro, Mass.

April 9. Miracle, Prof. Gould gives a cut in Government.

GEORGE KEATING TALBOT

"GEORGE"

Our hardest task! To write up the most popular man in the clas would require a volume ten times the size of the present one. George fits with every one and has a personality that is felt by all those who come in contact with him. As a student and athlete Bates may well be proud of him. He has done everything from high hurdles in the indoor meet to a 90-yard run on the gridiron, and has held almost every office from class president to captain of the baseball team. George has shunned the opposite side of the campus, but we don't know what his intentions are for the future. Whatever he does we are sure will be worth while, and we are positive he will succeed.

Born at Gardiner, Maine, July 2, 1893; fitted at Gardiner High School; entered Bates in 1911; made "B" in football (1, 2, 3, 4); made "B" in Baseball (1, 2, 3, 4), Captain (4); made Numerals in Baseball (1, 2); Track (1, 3); Athletic Association, Secretary (2), Vice-President (3); President 'Varsity Club; Musical Association, Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Mandolin Club (2, 3, 4); Piærian; Student Council (2); Parker Hall Association (1, 2, 3, 4), Secretary (2); Deutscher Verein; Athletic Editor on MIRROR Board; President of Class (3); Roman Catholic; majors, German, English; Degree, A.B.; Prophecy for Men, Class Day; home address, 81 Highland Avenue, Gardiner, Maine.

APRIL 10. Bashful Eli Ross gives his initial performance in leading chapel.

GLADYS LOUISE TILTON

"Glad"

"For wise she is, if I can judge of her,
And fair she is, if that mine eyes be true,
And true she is as she has proved herself!

This is "Glad," our true blue optimist, whose chief delight is to comfort Rand Hall "Co-eds" in all their troubles from "Morbus Cupidinis" to a "B" in History. Gladys was also the cause for the class in "industrial arts" that used to work so busily in Monie's English. So far her co-educational career has been marked by one prominent "affair de couer" which has been published so widely that no further mention is needed here. Ask anyone what "Glad's" most cherished Christmas present was or what her favorite sofa pillow is. As for work, is there anything that she isn't ready to do for any cause or anybody. She is one of those girls whom you trust, admire, and love.

Born at London, N. H., Jan. 8, 1892; fitted at Somersworth High School; entered Bates, 1911; Volleyball (2, 3); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Board (4); Glee Club (4); Y. W. C. A., Religious Meeting Committee (2), Chairman (3), Chairman Social Service Committee (4), Chairman of Volunteer Band (4); Cabinet (4); Polymnian (1, 2, 3); Campus Council Secretary (1); N. H. Club, Secretary and Treasurer (2); Enkuklios (4); President of Seniority (4); Current Events Club; Baptist; Progressive; Majors, English, History; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "Evolution in Warfare;" intended occupation, Y. W. C. A. Work; address, Kennebunk, Maine.

April 12. Stephanis refuses to send any more clothes to Mike Maugan's.

CLEVELAND THURSTON

"Thurst"

The only mistake this fellow ever made was the fact that he spent the first two years of his college career at Colby. As a rule, Bates men are more apt to spend the latter part of their course at that institution. But we admire him because he did get wise and leave before it was too late. He's also a full-fledged member of the Zeta Psi fraternity, a most unusual thing for a Bates man. We wonder how this fact escaped the notice of the faculty.

Born at Bristol, Maine, Nov. 12, 1887; fitted at Lincoln Academy; graduated 1905; Colby College, 1906-1908; member of Class Baseball Team, 1906 and 1907, at Colby College; Member of Football Team, 1906; entered Bates in 1913; member Zeta Psi Fraternity; Congregationalist; majors, German, Geology; thesis subject, "Thomas Hardy;" degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Newcastle, Maine.

April 14. Gungadine gets a cool reception at the Commons.

BETHANIA TUCKER

"Beth"

Beth's greatest happiness here in college is her pull with the faculty. It makes no difference whether or not she attends classes, her rank goes on just the same. If she is a bit noisy when she comes in late from an evening's entertainment and causes an irritated member of the faculty to sit on the stairs an hour or so to keep the halls quiet, it is all right. If she is suddenly surprised in an exciting game of poker by the entrance of the dean, nothing is said. She is excused from attending church because of her overwhelming passion for sleep. The only restrictions placed upon her in connection with the college is that she shall at least consider the suggestion offered by the dean.

Born at Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 4, 1893; fitted at South Orange High School, N. J.; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals in Basketball (2); tennis (2); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Interdenominational; Revisionist; majors, History, English; thesis subject, "German Working man and the English;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, 411 Richmond Ave., South Orange, New Jersey.

April 15. Boston Symphony Concert in chapel.

ROY M. TUTTLE

"Roy"

Roy's idiosyncracy is "Perseverance for the sake of exactness"—we are fully aware of it, and admire his frankness. Anyone who has seen him puttering around the physics or chemistry "lab" will testify to this. You doubtless have heard of the "Sunny Jim" of breakfast food fame—well, Roy is the only original broad-grinned expert. His prohibition tendencies are so strong that he has even refused to do chemical experiments that necessitate the use of alcohol in any form, With more such men as you, Roy, alcohol would be "downed" forever.

Born at Lisbon Falls, Maine, May 25, 1889; fitted at Lisbon Falls High School; graduated 1907; entered Bates in 1908; entered again in 1912; entered with class of 1915 in September, 1913; Friends; Prohibitionist; majors, Chemistry, German; degree, A.B.; intended occupation, Chemist; address, Lisbon Falls, Maine.

April 16. Sol Miner puts Doc Britan's eye out by a brilliant recitation in Education.

MARY ESTHER WADSWORTH

"Es"

Here is our fair-haired damsel, modest and sweet she is, but capable of great things. Her name is associated with every activity, including co-education. She has distinguished herself in basketball, hockey and baseball, besides being the capable and loved president of the Y. W. C. A., and above all else, she has proven true blue among all her associates. Even if at times she has shown a decided inclination to be in sympathy with a certain individual of the Class of 1914, yet during her Senior year she has been entirly loyal to 1915. Distance has its advantages and we claim her as all our own, the girl whom everyone loves.

Born at Gardiner, Maine, March 6, 1894; fitted at Gardiner High School; entered Bates in 1911; Championship Basebali Team (3); Basketball (2, 3); Hockey (3, 4); Manager of Hockey (4); made Numerals (2, 3, 4); Athletic Association (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Board (4); Vice-President of Y. W. C. A. (3); President (4); Chairman of Membership Committee (3); Piærian (1, 2, 3), Secretary (2); Seniority (4); Enkuklios (4); Ivy Day Speaker, "Social Life;" Class Vice-Presidena (2); Congregationalist; Progressive; majors, German, Mathematics; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject: "Goethe as Revealed in Faust;" intended occupation, Y. W. C. A. work; address, Gardiner, Maine.

April 19. Patriots' Day—Bates trims Lewiston, 12 to 7.

CECILIA WALSH

"Sicily"

"The glass of fashion, the moulds of form,
The observed of all observers!"

Cecilia is our little "Sunshine." Her smile is like the rainbow after an April shower. Alas, Cecilia has two weak points—singing and gazing in the mirror. Even the Fates decree that she will not marry until she consults her mirror less! But her faults are enviable, for her voice is as sweet as the nightingale, and her practice before the mirror perfects a charming grace. Surely her patron saint looks down upon her with satisfaction.

Born at Lewiston, Maine, September 6, 1893; graduated from Jordan High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association; made Numerals in Basketball (2); in Baseball (2); Glee Club (4); Enkuklios (4); "L" Club; Ivy Day Speaker; Class Prophet; Junior Exhibibtion Speaker; religious preference, Catholic; major, English; Degree, A.B.; address, 8 Wood Street, Lewiston, Maine.

April 21. Monie forgets to say "Last stanza, please."

ETHEL WHITMARSH

"Sunshine"

"E. X. W.," are the initials on her suit case. What does the "X" stand for? For an unknown quantity just the same as in algebra. The most striking thing about her is this—that one never knows what she will do in a given situation.

But there are one or two conspicuous things that are, as Peachy used to say, "indicative of character."

I. Her promptness leads her to be at classes early enough for interesting conversation before recitation.

II. She is never at chapel when there is a special speaker—in fact, she has received more notices for unexcused absences than any girl in college.

III. She has never had an afternoon class.

IV. She is noted for her unfailing obedience to all "requests emanating from this office."—Dean Buswell.

Born at Farmington, Me., 1893; graduated from Whitman High School in 1911; entered Bates, 1912; Member of Polymnia; Unitarian; Democrat; majors, Philosophy and German; thesis subject, "Greek Influence on Christianity;" Degree, A.B.; intended occupation, teaching; address, Pepperell, Mass.

April 23. Debating team defeats Tufts.

HOWARD MARSHALL WIGHT

"Wightie"

Here we have the greatest Biologist of the day. If you want to know anything concerning the genealogy of man, ask Howard. If you want to know who starts the "rough houses" especially in Education, ask Howard. He has taken Pom's courses in Biology four years, and it has been rumored that he has been offered a high salaried position, in biological research work, over the old haunts of Thoreau, namely, along the Concord and Merrimac rivers. It has also been rumored that Foxy Jordan has chosen him as assistant in chemistry for next year. Is this so, Howard, or will you lose yourself in the wilds of Maine or sunny Porto Rico? When it comes to character Howard is a thorough man, a staunch friend always ready to help any one and every one.

Born at Harrison, Maine, May 5, 1889; graduated from Bridgton Academy, 1908; entered Bates, 1911; Manager of 'Varsity Tennis (3); made "B;" made Numerals (1, 2, 3); Y. M. C. A. (1, 2, 3, 4); Executive Committee (2, 3); Member of Jordan Scientific Society and 'Varsity Club; Freshman and Sophomore Prize divisions; Ivy Day Speaker, "Our Victories;" major in Biology; thesis subject, "Our Vanishing Wild Life;" Degree, B.S.; address, North Bridgton, Maine.

April 24. Bates-Bowdoin Dual Meet.

KENNETH FARWELL WITHAM

"KEN"

We don't know very much about "Ken" because we haven't seen very much of him. He spends most of his time on White street, or in the library. For a physical specimen "Ken" cannot be beaten and he certainly fought admirably for a place on the football team. One thing certain, he knows (nose) the game. He lives in South Paris but spends his summers in Aroostook. It would be folly to ask why. For one who loves and cherishes his "Alma" Mater, "Ken" has no equal.

Born at South Paris, Maine, July 5, 1892; graduated from Paris High in 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made Class Numerals (1, 2, 3); member of Athletic Association; Y. M. C. A., Secretary (2); Chairman Deputaton Committee, Chairman Recruiting Committee; Polymnia, Vice-President (3), President (4); Parker Hall Association; Class Marshal (1); Congregationalist; Republican; majors, English and German; Degree, A.B.; thesis subject, "National Prohibition;" intended occupation, Y. M. C. A.; address, South Paris, Maine.

APRIL 25. The advance delegates to the Exposition pay us a visit.

ELIZABETH MAY WOOD

"Beth"

Here is a little maiden who, not content with toasting the faculty, roasted them on a certain memorable day. And yet we can scarcely roast Beth. Her aspirations are always of the highest as you will see in her pictures, and in everything relating to her "coiffure" as well. Rumor has it that Beth's a flirt. If we could only examine the ballots that are cast for Beth, I wonder what part "the other half of creation" would play, and why.

Born May 26, 1894, Lewiston, Maine; graduated from Jordan High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Member of Polymnia (1 2, 3); Athletic Association; Enkuklios; Chairman of Department of Dramatics of Seniority; member of "L" Club; made Sophomore Prize Division; Ivy Day Speaker, "Toast to the Faculty;" Junior Exhibition Speaker; Episcopalian; majors, German, French and English; degree, A.B.; address, 186 Blake Street, Lewiston, Maine.

April 26. Many rich finds in the Intra-Mural League.

In Memoriam

Pearl F. Wheeler

Charles R. Tracy

Quondam Members of 1915

FRANCES ELLEN BARTLETT

"Fud"

"Fud" entered Bates 1915 with a rush, and went thru two years with us at the same rate. A trail of mended hearts and rueful memories followed in her wake. We hated to have you go, "Fud," but we enjoy those flying trips you occasionally make back to Lewiston. Is there a reason? We hope that you won't ever forget us, and we will always cherish memories of the days when you were one of us.

Born at East Stoneham, Me., April 15, 1894; graduated from Norway High, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Glee Club; Y. W. C. A.; Sophomore Prize Division; Congregationalist; present occupation, nursing.

RUSSELL T. BATES

"Russ"

"Russ" entered with our class and pursued two years of successful work in studies and athletics until the call of Law School took him away to other parts. A sunny disposition, a willingness for a lark, and a good word for everybody are the characteristics by which Russ is remembered by all of us.

Born in Quincy, Mass., Aug. 11, 1892; Quincy High, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; made "B" in football and baseball; made numerals in baseball and track; intended occupation, Law; home address, Quincy, Mass.

HAROLD CALDER CRAWFORD

"Dan"

"Sol" Miner's partner in all activities—never separated—veritable Siamese Twins. "Dan" never rivalled "Old Sol" in getting up in the morning. But whenever anybody was in trouble "Dan" was always a person who would lend a helping hand. The only thing Vernon Castle had on Dan was a wife, but Dan still has lots of time.

Born at Jefferson, N. H., 1893; Jefferson High, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals, baseball; Y. M. C. A.; Deputation Committee (1); Chairman Executive Committee, John Bertram Hall Association; Parker Hall Association; Methodist; Democrat; intended occupation, business; home address, Jefferson, N. H.

RALPH CLARK DICKEY

"Dick"

We often wondered why it was that Dick was such a "smooth guy"—but the explanation is that he drinks olive oil with his meals. In fact he is so smooth that everything comes his way, including appendicitis and measles. That's why Dick left us during our Sophomore year. We were sorry to lose him, but we are glad to find that he is taking such excellent care of the Juniors.

Born Aug. 22, 1890; Oak Grove Seminary, 1910; entered Bates, 1911; home address, Augusta, Maine, R. F. D. No. 6.

April 27. We trim Harvard, 3 to 2; big celebration.

ERNEST MELVIN GERRY

"Jerry"

He left us, but returned again. No back woods for "Jerry" after three lively years spent in Parker Hall. Altho a "daddy" he is still one of the boys, and doubtless that carefree expression will ever be with him,—here's hoping.

Born at East Corinth, Me., Sept. 6, 1892; East Corinth Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals in baseball, track and Class Drill; member of Y. M. C. A., Athletic Association, Polymnia, and Jordan Scientific Society; Marshal Ivy Day Exercises; Universalist; Republican; address, East Corinth, Maine.

MABEL GERTRUDE GOOGINS

"Kewpie"

Gone from our midst, but still near enough to make us wish that she was still a member of 1915. Mabel was always a demure little miss, with a genius for making friends, and now she has even placed her name in the "ad" column. Whether in Indiana or Maine we know that she will always have a host of friends.

Born at East Somerville, Mass., Dec. 13, 1892; Portland High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; left at end of Sophomore year; Athletic Association; Y. W. C. A.; member of Cabinet; Secretary of Class (2); Basketball Team (1), (2).

ALBERT B. HARVEY

"Bertie"

Behold the deserter, we are glad that his desertion was not prompted by any ill feeling toward 1915. You have helped us a lot, "Bertie." You have been Hod's right hand man and spiritual adviser, and we feel that it is largely due to your influence that this young genius has developed. We wish to congratulate the Class of 1916 upon its aequisition.

Born at Dover, Me., Jan. 18, 1892; Foxcroft Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; address, Foxcroft, Maine.

PAUL F. NICHOLS

"Nick"

Probably Bates never boasted of three Freshmen capable of more deviltry, and quite as inseparable as were Rowley, Clark, and Nichols during their first year at Bates. But Nichols deserves the greatest credit, for he did stay with us longer than one year. We predict that Paul will be a great credit to the Class of 1916, as the result of our careful training.

Born at Everett, Mass.; graduated from Cushing Academy, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Class Drill; member of Deutsche Verein and the Jordan Scientific Society; Local Editor of the Student; Assistant in Botany; Congregationalist; Independent; intended occupation, Sanitary Biology; address, Ashburnham, Mass.

April 28. Bates 14, Boston College 6.

ARNOLD FRANCIS THOMAS

"Tom"

It was with great difficulty that Arnold was persuaded to take the presidentship of the Deutsche Verein; which only goes to show that genius will out. The records of the registrar's office have told us that Arnold was one of the most scholarly men of our class. "Tom's" statistics designate his intentions to enter the ministry as a Home Baptist. We wish him success in this work of ministering unto the souls of his fellowmen.

Born in Keating Summit, Pa., Sept. 3, 1893; Winthrop High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; made numerals in baseball, and Prize Drill; Athletic Association; Treasurer of Musical Association; Spofford Club; President of Deutsche Verein; Home Baptist; Republican; intended occupation, ministry; address, Winthrop, Maine.

ELMER HARRISON WEBBER

"Daddy"

It was a momentous day for him when we first were privileged to call him "Daddy." He was the only man of our class who dared to bring the family to recitations. Theodore Roosevelt is his ideal, and he has followed well the teachings of this great American.

Born at Mt. Vernon, Me., July 18, 1880; Mt. Vernon High School; Farmington Normal, 1907; entered Bates, 1909; member of Athletic Association, Y. M. C. A. and Piæria; Congregationalist; Progressive; present occupation, Superintendent of Schools, Livermore Falls, Maine; degrees, A.B. and B.Pd.

RUBY MARION WHEELER
(MRS. ERNEST M. GERRY)

"Ruby"

Ruby, you stayed with us only three years, but we still think of you as one of the bunch. May you and Ernest always have as warm a place in your hearts for us as we have for you. We wish you all possible happiness in your matrimonial venture.

Born at East Livermore, Maine, Sept. 25, 1895; Livermore Falls High School, 1911; entered Bates, 1911; Athletic Association; Y. W. C. A.; Polymnia; Freshman Prize Division; Secretary of Class; Universalist; address, East Corinth, Maine.

April 29. Big procession meets the team at Auburn station.

Joy Day Poem

Music of melting harmony, exquisite,
Welling and rising, dying low and sweet,
Breathing in notes of passion and of prayer,
Softens tenderly to a minor key.
Then with wild outburst of rich song,
Rising triumphant in majestic strains,
Swelling in deep and throbbing ecstacy,
Trembles and vibrates till the crystal spheres
In space unfathomed thrill with answering bliss,
Heaven spoke to earth in grand and solemn strains
That echo down the labyrinth of time,
Clinging and lingering with caressing tone,
Finding an answering chord to each refrain.
Uncounted lies the vast expanse of time,
Unmeasured by the slowly settling sands
Of ancient hour-glass. Worlds came and passed
Into the abyss of infinity and still the heavenly song
With notes unnumbered echoed o'er the earth
Till found by man.
The pearls of melody to him seemed unstrung
And strewn with careless hand, and so unskilled
But confident, he essayed in strings of harmony,
To arrange the gems, that each in rightful place,
Should form a chain of melody complete.
The man in years to come should ne'er forget.
Wearisome was the toil.
The threads of martial steel and luxurious gold,
Snapped like a web weighted with sudden rain
Scattering the pearls in discord yet more wild.
Long years it was before he learned that war,
Fame and wealth have no part in a long divine.
At length, impatient with his endless task,
Wearied and heart-sick by the fruitless hope
Of shaping to his will the immortal song, he turned
To love and friendship for his fellowman,
No longer did the pearls of melody
Seem scattered in an aimless way
But each to each was joined in union consonant,
To form the nine-fold symphony of Life.
The wildwood notes of mating bird and chattering young,
The lapping tinkle of the hurrying brook,
The sweet, unnoticed sounds of growing things,
The petty triumphs and the deeper joys of men
Upon the silver clef of friendship blend
With all the harsher notes of toil and strife,
The pain and agony of life and death,
Into an echoing anthem of grand harmony
With a dominant seventh chord of trust and hope,
The fitting postlude of creation's song,
The glorious prelude of a grander song to be.

JUNIORS

Class of 1916

History of the Class of 1916

ALREADY three years have passed since that eventful day when a motley crowd of 1916-ers boarded the Figure 8 for the college campus. It was then that the troubles of our Freshman life began. Oh, those dreadful mid-years and how we shuddered at the thot of Freshman Decs! Then, too, occurred that wonderful class ride with dear old Uncle Johnny. Can we ever forget it?

Soon followed our Sophomore year with its horrors of essay, debate and the added care of training the Freshmen. One day something very strange happened. Several 1917 orators failed to appear at the appointed hour for delivering their declamations. Monie glared, Prof. Rob whined, Prexy scolded, the Juniors and Seniors looked mystified, but 1916 looked wise and said nothing. There were victories, too, for 1916 that year, both in the Indoor Track Meet and in the Girls' Gymnastic Meet. The girls' basketball team, also, scored above the Senior team, and thus tied the three upper classes for the championship.

Junior year opened promisingly and now 1916 was welcomed once more back from exile. "Dick's" party furnished one of the most enjoyable events of the year. Having grown extremely dignified by this time, it became necessary to lay aside all child's play so that even "tucker" had to be sacrificed. Then we plunged into Junior Parts and Intercollegiate Debates.

Class of 1917

History of the Class of 1917

"HISTORY," says Voltaire, "is little else than a picture of human crimes and misfortunes." Then it is the "little else" that we have been concerned in making—a great deal of the "little else." Misfortunes there have been, we admit, when two relentless mid-years swept some of us away, but crimes, never!

We came, a crowd of big-eyed Freshmen, clinging to our trunk-checks, and wondering if professors ate naughty children. Swiftly we were launched into college life and for a day or two we could not keep our heads above the breakers.

It was early in the year that we began to display our latent greatness, in the first baseball game against the Sophomores. Not one of us will ever forget that game; it was then our class spirit was born.

The Class Ride, the Hare and Hound Chase, such times as these made us realize the true significance of "Alma Mater," and our common bond in the hatred of Webster's New International, and Woolley served only to increase it.

Mid-years came; we survived them. Freshmen "decs" followed closely. It was but a step to June, and we were Sophomores. Fall came and brought us back together. How different our arrival from that of the year before! We handed our checks correctly to Gillespie, and no longer had misgivings about professor's menus. We were coming home.

From our vantage point we watched homesick Freshmen wander helplessly around the campus until we rescued them, until we gently guided girls away from Parker, and dissuaded boys from going to chapel at Rand.

We wrapped ourselves up in dignity and set ourselves up as shining examples for Freshmen to follow.

We were Sophomores.

FRESHMAN

Class of 1918

History of the Class of 1918

List to the tale of the Freshmen,—the youths and the maidens of '18,
List to a tale that is new; ne'er before was their history written,
Short must this narrative be, for their exploits, though great, are not many.
The story begins with the class ride, and the day far-famed for its pleasures,
Remembered as long as the giver, the patron saint of all Freshmen.
Then did the upperclassmen, gathering us into Fiske Room,
Introduce us to schoolmates, classmates, and faculty members,
Trying their best to instruct us, since we were unused to such functions.
Soon did the youths and the maidens vie with their comrades for honors,,
Clean-limbed and strong were the men, as their feet spurned the track in the races,
And from the scene of their efforts, the laurel was borne by a Freshman.
Likewise the girls in their games won honor for '18 at hockey.
At last came the test of endurance; at midyears some few of our number
Found, far away from Bates, appreciation of genius;
Gone, although not forgotten; we mourn them as lost who have left us.
Then from Rand Hall came the summons: "Put on your best bib and tucker,
Here in the gym we await you. Come and make valentines for us."
So, in the strength of their courage, forth came the youths from their strongholds,
Came to the gym as instructed, to aid in the revels of Cupid.
Thus ends the tale of the Freshmen. May the years as they pass give us wisdom,
Till, four years hence, we can give you a history more worth the reading.

Ivy Ode

TUNE: "Comrades"

'Tis the glory of the springtime, splendor streams on hallowed walls;
Light our hearts and bright our visions; o'er our paths no shadow falls.
Alma Mater, hear our greeting, consecrate our gift, we pray;
As a pledge of love unfailing, we the ivy plant to-day.
Springtime, glad time, days of our golden dreams,
Merrily rings our chorus, brightly our pathway gleams;
Here's to the dreams of our youth, then; here's to the memories that stay;
Here's to the token of friendships unbroken, the ivy for aye.

When the years are changing places, and the spring o' life has flown,
And a million clinging tendrils round these barren walls have grown,
May our friendships never falter, dearest visions still prove true;
May we gather at this altar, pledge our sacred faith anew.
Ivy, ivy, list to our song to-day.
Gifts of our golden friendships here at thy shrine we lay.
What tho the summer may vanish, what tho the shadows be gray,
Carols we'll raise to the glory and praise of Batesina for aye.

THOSE who are interested in the Y. M. C. A. were sorry to learn that Secretary A. G. Cushman decided to accept a position as Secretary of the M. I. T. Y. M. C. A. But all have greatly rejoiced over our success in obtaining so worthy a successor in Harry W. Rowe, '12. Mr. Rowe's ability to organize as well as his pleasant disposition, has won for him friends thruout the entire college irrespective of the association membership.

In accordance with the growth of the institution we feel that we have made considerable advance over all previous years. Some of our activities of the past year are as follows. A large group of Freshmen have received much needed instruction thru the work of the Y. M. C. A. This year's handbook has been voted the best ever published by the Association. The Book Agency, Reception to Freshmen, the Voluntary Bible Study and Mission Groups, the Employment Bureau, all these have endeared the Association to every man on the campus.

Our activities have not been confined to the campus alone. Deputations of students have helped the churches in their work in nearby towns. The large number of Sunday School Teachers furnished to the Lewiston and Auburn churches has made the Association a potent factor in the community at large.

It was our privilege to entertain the State Student Conference this year. Entertainment was furnished for one hundred and seventy-five thru the co-operation of committees composed of friends in the two cities. Chef Kiersted of the Commons did much to make the Conference a success by furnishing meals at cost to about seventy-five of the delegates. The entertainment was commended by all of the guests, and especially commended by the State Committee.

The Association has come to have such a wide scope of activities that its needs and demands are supported by every man in college. The almost unanimous support given by the members of 1915 speaks well for the usefulness of this department of our college activities.

BATES may well consider herself fortunate in having as one of her best organizations the Y. W. C. A. The work which this association is doing and the rapidity with which it grows yearly in membership and accomplishments cannot escape notice.

The Y. W. C. A. plays an important part in the social life of the College. Last Fall, as is customary, a reception was given to the Freshmen girls on the side of Mt. David, as all consider this the best means of bringing the girls of the different classes into closer friendship early in the year. On the Friday following the opening of College, the joint Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. reception was held and there an opportunity was given to all to meet the members of the entering class.

Besides the regular meetings of the Association which are held every Wednesday during the college year, there are the Bible Classes in the Fall and the Mission Study Classes in the Spring. During the past year the girls of the Y. W. C. A. have done a great amount of practical work. Under the leadership of the Social Service department the girls have gone to the Old Ladies' Home and to the Children's Home to spread some of the good cheer there, which exists among their number. The members of the association have helped, also, in substituting in the Sunday School Classes in various churches of the city. Not content with work at home the Bates girls have aided in the Red Cross movement during the past winter. The work has proved pleasant to the girls and has enabled them to feel that they, too, are doing something to help in the sad conditions which exist abroad.

Every year Bates sends a delegation to the Y. W. C. A. Conference at Silver Bay. There it is that the Bates Girls realize how important this association is which enables them to compete in efficiency with other American colleges in as great a movement as the Y. W. C. A.

THE Politics Club was founded in 1913 as the result of the personal interest of Professor R. R. N. Gould in the general movement thruout the country to awaken college men to the responsibilities of good citizenship. The purpose of the club is the closer study of civic, social, and political problems in order that Bates men may become active factors in the betterment of conditions in the communities to which they will go.

The club is a member of the Intercollegiate Division of the National Municipal League, and, as in former years, sent a delegate to the Annual Convention held at Columbia University and in Washington.

Our meetings have been held semi-monthly in Libbey Forum and at these meetings we have had the pleasure of listening and taking part in interesting discussions on many phases of our social and political life. Besides this student work, in which every member has had a part, we have enjoyed talks from Judge Webber of Auburn, the Reverend Mr. Temple of Lewiston, Professor R. R. N. Gould, and Professor Carroll.

The club has also endeavored to investigate and study some of the problems of our college life. A special committee investigated the various forms of student government among the eastern colleges. The results of this study took the form of a recommendation to the student body which was published in our college weekly.

CLUBS may come and clubs may go, but the Spofford Club goes on forever! Surely, we have valiantly withstood the changes which have so transformed many of our societies. We have resisted all transforming forces and revolutionary elements. Like the Romans of old, we meet each week in our Forum for the discussion of matters close to the heart of our institution, namely, our literary productions. True to the purpose of its organization, the Spofford Club chooses each year members whose literary ability has made them prominent, and its meetings are devoted to the reading and discussion of poems, essays, short stories, and sketches of various sorts.

We have just passed an unusually successful year. The members have been faithful in attendance, and the programs have been varied and interesting. We owe much to the presence and advice of Mr. Baird and Mr. Coleman, honorary members of our organization. We owe much, also, to the ready response of the members to requests for contributions to the programs. In all of our college activities there is no organization closer to the hearts of its members than is the Spofford Club. We pledge to it our life-long loyalty and wish it all success and prosperity in the work of future years.

THE JORDAN Scientific Society, organized in 1910 for the purpose of advancing scientific interests at Bates, has been steadily increasing its field of activity and assuming a place of supreme importance in the undergraduate life of the college. The meetings are regularly held in the Biology Lecture Room at Carnegie Hall, in the evening of the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Besides the informal discussions that are always an important part of the meetings, each member presents a paper during the year upon some subject in which he is particularly interested and of which he has made extensive study. The work carried on is intended not only to give the participant the benefit of extended study, but also to bring to the other members a general knowledge of the branches of science with which they otherwise might never become acquainted. Moreover the Society has been fortunate in having lectures presented, from time to time, by specialists in scientific departments. Notable among these were addresses by Professors Pomeroy and Watson.

In the past year several minor trips have been made in the vicinity of Lewiston, but of especial importance was the trip which the Society made to Portand neighboring towns for the purpose of observing applied science.

The annual banquet, at which Professors Jordan, Whitehorne, Pomeroy, and Ramsdell were guests, was highly enjoyable, and helped to strengthen that bond of fellowship and co-operation between faculty and students that is so eminently characteristic of Bates.

The year has been a decided success for the Society, and it remains only to hope that future years may bring a corresponding progress.

THE NEED of a Deutsche Verein seemed so evident in the fall of 1914, that at the suggestion of Dr. Leonard, eleven members of the Junior and Senior Classes met on the 16th of November, 1914, and decided to form a Verein.

The present Verein may be considered as a rejuvenation of the flourishing Verein that existed in 1905-1907. By-laws were adopted at the second meeting and a list of officers and four new members were elected. The members are made up from the two upper classes; ten are Seniors and five Juniors. Dr. Leonard is an active member and the other faculty members of the German Department are honorary members of the Society.

At the regular meetings which are held on the first and third Monday evenings of each school month, papers are delivered by the members and games are carried on in German conversation. A joint meeting was held with the Deutsche Gesellschaft, May 3d. An enjoyable time was reported by all. It is hoped that this policy will be carried out and enlarged upon in the succeeding years.

All in all, the society has been a decided success and thoroughly satisfies a long-felt need. It is hoped that this society will continue to flourish in the succeeding years and not decline as did the former society.

AMONG the most active literary societies of Bates the "Seniority" holds an important place. This society was organized in May, 1914, and the first regular meeting for the election of officers was held on the 16th of October, 1914. The Seniority has as its aim the development of appreciation among the girls of the upper classes; appreciation for all that is beautiful in music, art, and literature. This society is divided into three distinct departments, a department of drama, debating, and original work; each member belonging to one of the three divisions. The society holds its meetings once in two weeks with an open meeting in April. The programs which the society has offered this year have proved interesting and instructive; consisting, in part, of instrumental and vocal solos, reading of original papers, debating, and extemporaneous speaking. The Juniors and Seniors who have had A and B rank during their first two years in college, are eligible to the Seniority. At the present time the society numbers thirty-five members. On being admitted to the Seniority each member must present a paper written on a subject of her own choice.

Larfeneeta

AMONG the many societies and organizations which have contributed so much to the joy and happiness of college life we cannot fail to mention the town girls' organization, known as the LARFENEETA. Bound by a friendship which dates farther back than the four years of college acquaintance, the city girls of Nineteen Fifteen have held together and have done all that was in their power to make college life mean as much as possible to those not living on the campus. The LARFENEETA girls have met from time to time, at the homes of the different members, and the evenings spent thus have proved most enjoyable. Nor have the activities of this club been limited wholly to the members. In the Junior year the LARFENEETA Club entertained the city girls of their sister class, 1917. The year 1914-1915 has been brightened by Hallowe'en, Valentine and Easter parties. It has been especially pleasing for the city girls to entertain Miss Buzwell and the Dormitory Girls of Nineteen Fifteen. The club, though small in number, is very dear to its members and will long be remembered in relation to other good times which college life has offered to them.

BATES has many organizations which aim to promote social life in college. It has, however, one large social club which takes the lead in all social activities. This club, the "Enkuklios," is the realization of a dream which the Bates people who wish to better social conditions in the college have long desired. The "Enkuklios" meets once in two weeks and, from time to time, entertains the young men of the college. It is the aim of the society to give a large reception to the students and friends of Bates some time in February or March, after the mid-year examinations.

Judging from the first year of its existence the "Enkuklios" has been a success. It has attained a few of the things for which it was organized. It has bettered social life both among the girls and among the students of Bates as a whole. There is no doubt but that, yearly, the club will become better and more influential and, from time to time, remedy some of the defects which have existed in the social life of the college in past years.

LAST OCTOBER there was organized, among a few girls of the Senior and Junior Classes, a club known as "Die Deutsche Gesellschaft." Those who formed this organization did so with the purpose of becoming more familiar with German language, customs, land, and people.

The "Deutsche Gesellschaft" is an informal society. The meetings of the club are held bi-weekly at the home of Dr. Leonard. With the assistance of Professor and Mrs. Leonard, the members of the Club feel that they have accomplished a great deal during the past year.

June 1. Mirror goes to print.

Other Societies

THE MIRROR Board regrets that it has not been possible to give space to all of our college societies. Those whose merits do appear in this publication have not been selected because the others are less deserving. The preference has been given to those organizations in whose activities the greatest number of our class have participated.

Former graduates will probably observe with regret that Polymnia, Eurosophia and Piæria have not been given their usual prominence in the Senior book. For the benefit of those interested we would wish to explain that these societies are still very active; they are trying to satisfy new demands of our college life. Polymnia has chosen to investigate in the fields of Military Science. Piæria has undertaken the work of a Travel Club. Eurosophia is filling the place of a Dramatic Society. In the process of re-organization these societies are still weak, but another year will find them flourishing with their old time vigor.

JUNE 5. Bates beats 7 to 3.

DEBATERS

The Debating Teams

Debating

IN DEBATING Bates ranks among the leading colleges of the country. Our record in intercollegiate debate has reflected great credit upon the college; we have won 29 out of 37 contests. In the establishment of this enviable record the Class of 1915 has contributed its share.

We were first initiated into the art of debate in Sophomore Argumentation under the instruction of Professor Oldham. We finished our half year's work with a class debate in which the winning team was composed of Abbott, Gustin and Miss Page. The same year Saxton was chosen a member of the 'varsity team which debated Clark College; the first time in the history of the college that a Sophomore has been chosen to serve in a 'varsity intercollegiate contest. The Class of 1915 was ably represented, for it was largely thru the excellent work of Saxton that we were able to win from Clark.

During our Junior year we responded nobly to the demands made upon us, and furnished three of the 'varsity debaters. Packard, '14, with Saxton and Gustin of 1915, debated Colgate at Lewiston, and were defeated in City Hall in a closely fought contest. During the same year we defeated Tufts for the first time, and our team, composed of Dow and Marsden, '14, and Harding, '15, won at Medford in convincing style and by a unanimous vote of the judges.

This year we entered into a triangular debating league with Tufts and Clark. Our affirmative team, composed of Saxton and Carey, '15, and Chayer, '17, defeated Tufts at City Hall by a vote of 2 to 1, while our team, composed of underclassmen, lost to Clark College at Worcester.

Too much credit cannot be given to our coaches and trainers. The work of Professors Oldham and Baird, aided by Professors Chase and Carroll, has had a large part in making success possible.

The Faculty has given its consent to the establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Rho at Bates, and an application was made to the National Council. The purpose of this society is to encourage effective and sincere public speaking. Our unusually good record spoke so well for us that a chapter was readily granted to Bates.

THE BATES Student—how much it has meant to us during our college career, and how much it will still mean to us when we are far away and yet are able, through its columns, to trace the course of college activities and keep in touch with our Alma Mater! The Student is a faithful reflection of student life at Bates. In it we may review the records of our social life, our athletics, and our literary achievements. More than once we have registered our complaints in its columns, and perhaps less often, our appreciations, of what Bates has done, and is doing for us.

We have witnessed the beginning of a new epoch in the history of the Bates Student, namely, the change from a monthly to a weekly paper. The Class of 1914 first made the attempt to carry out the plan so long contemplated, and the Class of 1915 has continued the work with equal success; so it seems that the Bates weekly has come to stay. May the new Bates Student live as long, and be as powerful a factor in the life of Bates students, as the old paper, founded so many years ago, to fill the need of a young college for a student publication. True to its name, may our college paper always reflect the life of the Bates student.

The Student Council

THE TENDENCY among many of the larger colleges as well as secondary, thruout eastern United States, is an increasing grant of power to student organizations. Especially is this true of those bodies whose function it is to aid in the maintenance of order and discipline. A later development of student self-government is seen in the Student Council. Bates has such a body composed of 10 of the representative men of the institution. These men are chosen annually from each of the four classes. The fundamental thot in choosing the members is to select such as may best co-operate with students and faculty for the maintenance of such government as seems necessary.

Investigation during the present year has shown that Bates compares very favorably with other New England colleges in student government. We have not, as yet, all the powers that are delegated to certain similar bodies in larger institutions, but the power of this council is being increased each year.

Those less intimate with the college as well as the student body proper, are not in a position to know much either of the quantity or quality of the work accomplished by the Council. It is not an ostentatious body. Its work is carried out quietly and its meetings are all secret. It would be impossible to estimate the amount of effective work accomplished merely in the promotion of a feeling of fellowship and democracy between the student body and the faculty. Since the Council is a student organization it can better present the student side of college difficulties. To be sure of its accomplishing the most, one thing is necessary above all,—the support of the students as a unit. This, we believe, we have had during the past year.

The members during the year of 1914-1915 are:

Class Ode

TUNE: "Heidelberg"

Pleasure and happiness fill our hearts
In this hour of warm devotion,
When every moment its joys imparts
On campus, Field, and hall.
But sad are the thoughts of the parting year
And the days of soft emotion;
Yet though they be sad
We shall e'er be glad
When our song of youth we hear.

CHORUS

Here's to the joys o' the parting year,
Here's to the ivy crown;
Here's to the mem'ries sweet and dear,
Here's to the cap and gown;
Here's to the sparkling cup of youth,
Here's to the welcome care,
Here's to the class of faith and truth,
Here's to the fifteen fair.

Sweet are the mem'ries of friendship dear,
And the prowess of College glory;
Sweet are the vict'ries and loud the cheer
Which long will haunt our hearts.
But sweeter is happiness mingled with care,
And the strife for nobler story.
Come then let us fight,
All stand for the right,
And sing to our fifteen fair.

The Association was formed in 1910 to promote in general, the musical interests of the college. To one acquainted with Bates the work of the Musical Association in its different departments stands out as one of her striking activities. To one less familiar with the college the efforts of this department, especially the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, have been a means of gaining for Bates a reputation favorable with that of the larger colleges of New England.

Since the time we entered college and marched to the Freshman-Sophomore baseball game to the strains of our "Alma Mater," filling us with a mixed feeling of awe and pride, we have known that our band has been a real factor in awakening anew the meaning of the Bates spirit.

The orchestra, too, has a place. In Prize Division contests, in societies, receptions and thru Commencement each year, the college orchestra has filled a much needed place.

1915 can boast of a wealth of Musical Club members, both among the men and the women. We feel sure that among the other recollections of old Bates the genuine spirit we received thru song did much toward making us a unit on field and campus.

Bates Orchestra

Glee and Mandolin Clubs

WE INDEED feel that our class can justly boast of contributing the majority of the membership of these clubs. Out of the enrollment of 22 for 1914 and 1915, we contributed 15.

Our trips for 1915 were of a particularly enjoyable nature and were sufficiently varied in character to lend fine interest. Thruout the experiences of our club days in Bates we cannot recall a trip on which we were so admirably received as upon the two trips of the present year. Almost without exception we played to a full house and our concerts were reported to compare most favorably with those of other clubs.

We feel that a great amount of commendation belongs to Eddie Pidgeon and John Seavey who worked hard to make this our best year, and the results of whose efforts none can deny were crowned with success.

The Girls' Glee Club made its appearance at Bates in 1910. We may easily appreciate the work which the club has done in the past five years by glancing back at the programs which it has given at various times. Every year the club is called upon to furnish entertainment at different social events. The annual concert of the combined Glee and Mandolin Clubs takes place every spring and gives the Bates people a chance to appreciate what the clubs are doing. During the winter of 1914-1915 the clubs have given concerts in neighboring towns. The girls of the Glee Club feel that they owe much to Mr. E. L. Goss, under whose leadership the work has been carried on during the past year.

We would have to go far down through the history of the ages in order to find out when and where the first stringed instrument was introduced into the musical world. In the myths of old, in the gay country of the troubadours, among many lands and peoples, there has always been shown a great interest in music produced on the lyre, guitar, or other stringed instrument. Through our mandolin clubs we are able to preserve, to a certain degree, something of the fame of these popular instruments.

The Girls' Mandolin Club of Bates College was organized in 1910. Every year the club has become larger and larger, and more and more enthusiasm has been shown among the members. Together with the Glee Club the Mandolin Club has given concerts in and outside the city during the college year. It is customary for the girls of this club to hold a banquet in the spring when the club is on the point of breaking up after the year's activities.

The Bates Girl

Social Life

Co-education at Bates

THOSE who are uninitiated into the stormy activities of college life imagine that our days are spent in bluffing the professors, and our evenings in one mad riot of social engagements. We know better. Indeed, we would not wish it to be so, for then we would go out into the world with just so much to which we could not look forward. Our social gatherings have been sufficiently rare as to make them peculiarly delightful to reflect upon in after years.

Every Bates student remembers his Freshman Class Ride with the keenest of pleasure. It was then that we learned to know each other better, and began to feel that bond of friendship which was to hold us together during four college years. We walked and talked together, we sailed together, and we played games together, we joined in a ringing cheer for our Alma Mater, and for her youngest sons and daughters, the members of the Class of 1915. We climbed Mt. Gile, and we drank each other's health at the old cider mill. But best of all we learned to know Uncle Johnny, the friend of all Freshmen. Our memories of him will always go back to our first, last, and only class ride.

Next among our social gatherings the Senior Christmas Tree stands out most prominently. How we did rack our brains to think of some gift which would be appropriate for the person whom the committee informed us we were to make happy. And then upon the evening of our gathering the suspense was aweful while we were eagerly waiting to discover what our Santa had placed upon the tree for us. The gymnasium at Rand never looked prettier or more "Christmassy," and we all felt the Christmas spirit when we went home happy with a gift "made to order." Perhaps, after all, chafing dish refreshments are not superior to pop-corn and candy, but we all did justice to the "eats."

Our only real class party was held early in March, when, at the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Small, we gave Ernest the surprise of his life. The orchestra, games, solos, and readings all helped to make the evening the most enjoyable one of our college life. The air of informality seemed to bind us into closer friendship, and that night we made intimate friends of those who formerly were mere acquaintances when measured by the results of a real appreciation for our classmates as well as the permanent unions it has brought about we must all agree that our Social Life has been a very acceptable part of our college days.

Athletics in General

THE CLASS of 1915 has had the great privilege of twice seeing Johnny Harvard go down to defeat at the hands of a Bates baseball team. We are justly proud of our baseball record because in this field of athletics a team must win upon its own merits, and not because it has a greater student body to choose from, as is most always the case in football. In 1913, owing to severe injuries to our battery, we were very much handicapped; but this did not keep us from winning a final game from the champions to the tune of 2 to 1. In 1914 we, after a fiercely contested series, won the State Championship. In 1915 we have started the season well with all signs (including the prediction of Anna Eva Fay) pointing towards another pennant for Bates before the end of June.

In football we have not been so successful, but a Bates football team has always been known to fight in a clean, sportsmanlike manner until the last whistle has blown. In our first year we succeeded in trimming Maine (the champions), and again in 1913 they just barely beat us by the close score of 7 to 6. In 1915 we won from Bowdoin easily, altho greatly outweighed. In fact, our light team won the admiration of the state because of the grit and knowledge of the game which the men displayed.

In track we have been very consistent in our performance. One noticeable feature of our track activities is that our stars are all developed while in college; they do not come to us heralded as champions. In our Freshman year we won the only Championship that Bates has ever held. The spring of 1913 we walked away with the dual meet with Maine. That same year we just barely missed another Championship by a few points to the University of Maine. In 1914 our showing was not nearly so good, partly as a result of the great number of men who were barred from athletics because of probation.

Our record in tennis is one of which we are also proud. In our Freshman year we won both the singles and doubles, besides having won three times in the doubles.

Professor R. D. Purinton, and Coaches Green, Lathrop and Ryan deserve a tribute here for the fine spirit of fair play which they have at all times developed in every athlete who has been under their care—may they do as well with future Bates teams as they have done in the past.

ALL CLASSES have their football men, but to none do we take an inferior place. Bates teams have always been noted for their "fight" and sense of clean sportsmanship; the representatives of 1915 have been no exception to this rule. The team this year under the leadership of Captain Moore strongly impressed all followers of the game because of their gameness and willingness to give all they had for the honor of the college. Altho it was the lightest team that ever represented Bates, and was greatly handicapped by injuries to many of the players the team made an excellent showing. Bowdoin, our old rival, was defeated, 27 to 0, in one of the most spectacular games of our college career.

Captain Moore was so severely injured in the second game of the season that he was unable to play again. His loss was greatly felt on account of the great number of plays which had been built up around him. Monty will go down in Bates history as one of the best athletes and among the best captains she has ever had.

To hold down the position of 'varsity quarterback for four years requires a man to have the clear brain of a general and greater courage than has the grittiest fighter; but George Talbot has displayed everything that goes to make a football star, whether it was an accurate punt or an eighty-yard run.

In modern football a center has many things to do in addition to snapping the ball. Earle Harding could do all these things, and he did them well. More than once Earle was the right man in the right place. He was one of the grittiest fighters Bates ever had in any branch of sport.

Bill Manuel started his football career in his Sophomore year, and he made a flying start. He developed steadily and thru his last two years proved a stumbling block to almost every play sent his way. During Monty's absence Bill proved his ability to lead the team in a most reliable way.

Gustin, commonly called "Gus," played for the first time his Senior year. He played a well rounded out game, practically no big gains were made over him, and on defense, in slipping thru the opposing line and getting plays before they were started, he had few equals.

Earle Clifford set a good example of perseverance and the fighting spirit for the rest of the men. He demonstrated his gameness all of the time as well as a willingness to take all kinds of punishment when it was for the best interests of the team. In the Championship Series "Cliff" was in evidence from the whistle to the finish.

"Brad" Swift has been with us but a short time, starting as a Senior; but he soon made himself known. He was a fast end and game to the core.

Least in size but by no means least in ability, headwork, and knowledge of the game, is Edward Pidgeon. "Pidge" did not start work in earnest till his Senior year, but as quarterback he could time his plays, pick an opponent's weakness, and bring down his man in an enviable way.

Much credit must also be given to Coaches Purinton and Greene for the results which they have produced, and the brand of football they taught. Both were up-to-date in everything pertaining to the advanced game. Under their coaching Bates sprung a number of surprises on their opponents, by her fast, clean game. With such able men as coaches and a heavier squad for next year a great deal will be accomplished.

Baseball

BASEBALL is a sport in which 1915 has been especially strong. In each of our four years we have been ably represented on the 'varsity team. The teams have always made a good showing against the other colleges, both within the state and outside. In 1912 our men went down to Cambridge and beat Harvard 3 to 2, and the next day was just barely beaten out by Brown. A good bid was made for the State Championship, and the loss of it was no discredit to the team. We lost an eighteen inning game to Bowdoin, the longest game ever played by college teams in the state. In 1913 the team started well, but was seriously disabled by losing both Captain Griffin and Roy Stinson. They were called the best battery in the state, and while a good percentage of games was won, no championship was celebrated. The team came thru, however, in 1914 and took the State Championship, easily winning from all the other colleges. At the beginning of the year Harvard was held to a 2 to 1 score, then a march of victories continued until we were held up for a short time by Bowdoin. A deciding game was played on Garcelon Field; Bates won out and took the cup.

1915 claims seven 'varsity baseball men, and each one of them has proved his right to wear the B. In 1912 and 1913 Anderson, Bates and Ridlon showed real ability and worked hard for the team. Anderson starred in the box, with Ridlon on second and Bates in the outfield. In 1914 Fuller decided to show what he could do, and at second base was the sensation of the year; showing wonderful speed in the field, and at bat demonstrating how hard a ball can be hit. "Monte Adipose" Moore showed he was a man worthy to be in the game all of the time. While playing right field he did not have much chance to star, but at "wielding the ash" last year "Mont" was a decided factor in the winning of the Championship. This year he became famous thruout New England because of his great pitching victory over Harvard.

Captain Talbot has ably demonstrated his ability to lead a winning baseball team. As catcher, fielder, or first baseman he has made good in the fullest sense of the word. He has earned the admiration of all the fans, and has become a Captain whom all of the men are proud to follow.

Coach Purinton, altho relegated to the bleachers this year, has not been discarded as Coach and adviser. It has been due to his hard work in the development of each man that we have had such wonderful success with our baseball teams.

Tennis

FOR the last few years Tennis has increased greatly in popularity. While we have been at Bates, the teams representing the college have done very well. They have won the championship in Doubles twice and in Singles twice. Our Freshman year in the tournament at Orono, Capt. Woodman, '13, and Tomblen, '14, won the Doubles and Tomblen, '14, the Singles. In 1913 Capt. Woodman, '13, and Tomblen, '14, won the Doubles. The tournament this year was held at Bates. Last year, for the first time, our class had a representative, Richardson, who played with Lee, '14. Other members of the team were Capt. Tomblen, '14, and A. Purinton, '17. Capt. Tomblen, '14, won the championship in Singles. The team to represent Bates this year will in all probability contain three of our classmates.

ATHLETICS

Women's Athletics

EACH year sees increased activity in the line of girls' athletics. An hour each day must be spent in some kind of physical exercise. First of all comes work in the Gymnasium. It is now the custom to hold a "gymnastic" meet each spring, at the close of the work, and these annual events not only give additional interest, but produce much friendly rivalry among classes. Track meets also have their place in the girls' sports. Ida Kimball is 1915's track captain and "Kim" knows who the best runners are and who can put the "shot" farthest. Then "walking track" from Cheney House to Mountain Avenue certainly ought to be mentioned, for this is a very important part of physical exercise, much to the grief of those who have "make-up" work to complete.

Basketball is one of our most fascinating games, and each year brings out greater numbers of enthusiastic players. Hockey comes next, and is yearly becoming more popular.

Then there's volleyball and croquet for those not wishing more strenuous activity. Volleyball frequently takes the place of our-door sports on rainy days, for at other times it is difficult to get a full team out.

Baseball is one of our spring games, it is splendid exercise, and produces much fun, especially for the boys, who claim they play more scientifically.

Tennis almost speaks for itself. Forty! Love!! That's the very theme of co-education with no exception at Bates. Our tennis players are numerous and excellent. Ruth Beane, our captain, spares no pains in making this delightful sport attractive to the girls of all classes. Much skill is shown in the tournaments at the end of the year and keen competition is everywhere a noticeable feature.

Girls' Basketball

BASKETBALL! "Billy!" to the class of 1915 these words are almost synonymous. Basketball is one of our most exciting games and "Bill" is our loyal captain. Our team the first year, composed of Mabel Durgan, Captain, Miss Rideout, Miss Googins, Miss Gray, Miss Bassett and Miss Kimball, has seen many "shake-ups" and changes. Sophomore year Esther Wadsworth, Una Mills, Mary Roberts and Winnifred Jewell came out for basketball and something like the championship pennant loomed on our horizon. But fate did not give it to us this year.

Junior year Ruth Beane greatly strengthened our team and the championship pennant was ours. This was a great event in the history of our team, for we hardly dared hope to win from the strong 1914 team, and besides, they were were Seniors and we but Juniors. This victory was duly celebrated with red lights on Rand Hall lawn, and with much "merry-making" in the "gym."

Senior year our team remained unchanged. The night of the final championship game was a very exciting game. Our team, preceded by two girls carrying a large 1915 banner, and two playing mandolins, followed by the other girls in costume, marched into the "gym" singing our class song. The Seniors had many loyal supporters at the windows, too, who applauded most loudly the excellent work of our team. The Juniors gained three baskets at the start, but when the Seniors started in, they held them down to the final score of 35–30.

Here's to Billy, our captain,
Here's to our basketball team,
Here's to the best bunch ever,
Here's to Nineteen Fifteen.

Hare and Hound Chase

I BELIEVE it was the very first day of college that we girls as Freshies, rushed with the unpacking of trunks, buying of books, arranging of schedules, doing everything under the sun, and indeed taking things very seriously, were informed by sympathetic upperclassmen that, with all the confusion and strenuousness of college life, there were intermingled many pleasures, and among these the annual Hare and Hound chase.

This takes place usually early in October and is a time when the girls of all classes, excused from recitations, dignity abandoned for the afternoon at least, enter with all the spirit of pleasure into this autumnal frolic. To us as Freshmen the Hare and Hound chase was everything and more than our imaginations could picture. It was the same good time, also, when we were Sophomores and Juniors, and Seniors.

As is the custom, there were four trails, the white, the yellow, the blue and the red. Each course boasted two hares and nearly fifty hounds. The hares were Frances Malone, Frances Bryant, Edith Rideout, Ida Kimball, Ruth Beane, Mildred Bassett, Gladys Tilton and Mabel Durgan. The leaders of the trails were Mary Roberts, Ida Currie, Florence Hooper and Jessie Leighton.

The trails commenced at the Fair Grounds and led in a bewildering maze around and thru the grounds. The hares had been unusually diligent in making the trails as blind and misleading as possible, and the little paths of red, blue, yellow, and white, led over gates and railway embankments, thru swamps, fences and thickets.

Each trail had its special features. All along the way posters were placed upon trees and fences, and these provided the program of the trip. Some called for speeches, one suggested that the Freshmen play "leap frog," others for songs from different ones, and we even found that the faculty ladies were good sports in performing the stunts designated for them.

It was nearly sunset before the Hares' Retreat was reached, at a beautiful spot by the river side, where a brilliant camp fire was burning. Sandwiches, cake, marshmallows, baked beans, pickles, bacon and coffee were unpacked. Then contests as to who could roast bacon on a stick the best, were tried. After the supply of bacon had disappeared, marshmallows were roasted in the same way.

Several times great alarm was caused by the report that some of the "Freshies" had been spirited away, but watchful Juniors soon brought back the naughty Sophomores and relieved them of their captives.

As daylight faded, the hares and hounds joined in giving their different class yells and in singing the college song. Then from the same place where they had watched the sun disappear, they saw the moon rise. With the rising moon, the happy but tired company dispersed and wended their way toward campus and home. To the underclassmen, it is an event to be looked forward to again, to us as Seniors, the Hare and Hound chase is but a memory—a memory ever pleasant and hallowed as the years go by.

Championship Hockey Team

Officers of Women's Athletic Association

Hockey

HOCKEY was almost a new game at Bates when we entered, but now if we give to basketball first rank as the most popular indoor sport, we must give to hockey first place as the most popular outdoor game. During our first two years its reputation was rather doubtful, but at the beginning of our Junior year, Miss Bell was appointed as our new physical director, and with her coming, hockey was given the boost which permanently established its popularity. Our team with Ida Currie as captain, began to practice for the championship games, the first ever played at Bates in this sport, In these we easily defeated the Freshmen, but in the final game we were out-played by the Seniors of 1914.

Last fall, our team with five new players went out with a determination "to do or die." Even the practice games were exciting, it did seem odd how frequently that ball found its way in the direction of Una Mills, and once "Millsie" got possession, it meant a goal in the opinion of all our opponents. "Millsie" played right wing on our team and never missed even the smallest chance to increase our score. "Noldi" and Esther and "Odi" also were excellent players, but then this is true of all our team. The winds blew before we had played our necessary fifteen practice games and the snow fell before the championship contest, but at last favorable conditions and a fair day dawned for the final struggle between the Seniors and Freshmen. Too bad, Freshies! we hated to beat you, but you still have other chances. Not only did we win the championship, but every single practice game of the entire season. As a fitting conclusion, our team enjoyed a hockey banquet in Rand Hall Gymnasium, and tho the rules of the game may soon be forgotten, the spirit of loyalty and good fellowship displayed on this and so many other occasions will ever be remembered as one of the best things in college life.

Girls' Baseball

PERHAPS you will smile when you see baseball under girls' athletics, but nevertheless we have a team, just as the boys do. It is true we have no pretensions to the National Pennant, but we are right there, just the same.

The girls did not make much of this sport until our Sophomore year, when Miss Manship came to Bates. Since then we have had a regular team with Frances Bryant for captain. Frances is a most enthusiastic player, she sees to it that no one makes the team who does not thoroughly know the game. Una Mills is our pitcher and anyone who thinks girls cannot pitch good ball should have seen "Millsie" pitch last Field Day. This was when the Championship games came off and when we came out victors. "Millsie" allowed few hits and was backed up with exceedingly good fielding.

This year, as we are more familiar with the game, we look for sharper competition, but with last year's victory fresh in our minds, we expect to place our numerals again on the Championship Pennant.

Seniority Song

"Then You'll Remember Me!"

Seniority, to thee we bring our grateful praises due;
For ties of fellowship that bind our hearts to thee anew.
The path of toil by friendship made sweet,
A truer meaning brings.
The hand of Hope guides ever on.
Where youth has rainbow wings,
Where youth has shining, soaring, rainbow wings.

Seniority, again we come when lyric turns to prose,
When morning's song is lost in chords and strains that noon-tide knows.
Yet with our vision still undimmed, we clasp loved hands once more
And drain a health to life and friends,
And pledge it o'er and o'er.
And pledge it deeply, gladly, o'er and o'er.

JOKES

KNOCKS

Roscoe: How rough this sport of football is. What shocks of irresistible bodies!

Miss Mills: Humph, what shocks of irresistible hair! (Roscoe nearly pahsed away.)

Layton: Did they offer you any choice at the Missionary Bureau as to where you should be sent?

Abbie Jane: Yes, and I told them I'd prefer to go to some place where the natives were vegetarians.

Prof. Gould: What is the objection of the politicians to the Civil Service Reform System?

Monty Moore: The examination questions.

PROHIBITION

Stranger: Where can I get a drink in this town?

Pete Nash: See that millinery shop over there?

Stranger: You don't mean to say they sell whiskey in a millinery store?

Pete: No, I—mean that's the only place in Lewiston they don't sell it.

AFTER THE PLAY

Miss Smiley: I cried all thru the play.

Miss Stuart: Was it so pathetic?

Miss Smiley: Terribly! The wretched usher put Kenneth on one side of the aisle and me on the other.

Professor Gould in American History asked what had become of the Irish who emigrated to this country after the famine.

Stephanis answered: "They all got on the New York police force."

In speaking of the restrictions on personal liberty in Germany, Professor Gould asked if anyone knew about the kind of signs which are posted around the German cities.

John Seavey volunteered "Beer Signs."

Cecilia Walsh in speaking of a young man whom she had met at a Frat Dance: "It is so strange we had never met before. He has traveled so extensively; he has been to Old Orchard and Auburn."

Prof. Leonard to Miss Chapman, who is translating: "A little louder, please."
Miss Chapman (resuming in a loud voice): "You poor fool——"

TRANSLATING CHAUCER

Monie: What is the meaning of the word "cure," Mr. Carey?
Carey: . . . . . (heavy silence.)
Monie: Yes, but the meaning has changed since then.

Grandpa Atwood was having difficulty in translating the word "berd."
Monie: What is it we have on the top of our heads?
Gramp: Sometimes we have hair.

SOME ACCOMPLISHED!

Professor Britan said that he had learned his greatest accomplishment before he was three years old—to talk.

Doc Britan: Mr. Miner, if you permit young chickens to see you, will they follow you?
Sol: Yes, if the instinct of fear hasn't already arrived.

Monie: Miss Tilton, what do you know about a man named Eliot?
Miss Tilton: Do you mean George Eliot?

Monie: What did that man Stedman do when he wasn't writing?
Ernie Small: Composing poems.
Monie: Rather hard on his poems, but what was his occupation?
Stinson: Farming, wasn't it?
Monie: Well, yes, he did raise some stock, since he was a broker.

Monie: What great writer tried his hand at civil engineering?
Miss Bryant: Mary Hallock Foote's husband.

Monie (to Miss Morrill): Give me some books by Cooper.
Miss Morrell: Two captains.
Monie (to class): What shall we do to the captains?
Miss Foster: Add "Courageous" and give them to Kipling.

Student to Miss Bassett: Wouldn't you like to take "History of Religion?"
Miss Bassett: Yes, I don't want to get out of college without taking some of Coach Purinton's courses.

Discovered—That Dolloff has "water on the brain"—we are reluctant to print the fact, but we have it on Dutchy's authority.

Great big ears and freckled faces,
Green and crimson-hued cravats,
Milk upon their dainty footlets
With their Sunday best plug hats!
Who are these that throng our hallways
Getting trodden under feet?
'Tis the gleaning of the pig-stys
Who have come here to complete
What the little old red school-house
Tried to teach them every week.

Scene—English Room, Hathorn Hall.

Time—1.15 P.M.

Dramatis Personæ—"Monie" Hartshorn, and the Flower of the Would-be Literary Lights of 1915, of both sexes.

Curtain rises.

Professor Hartshorn discovered in characteristic attitude, observing the landscape.

Enter two members from "the other side of the campus."

"Monie," consulting his timepiece: "Just a little early—didn't have as much to eat as common, did you?"

The young ladies addressed give him a withering look, then smile inanely, and politely murmur—"Yes, it is." Enter "Grandpa" Atwood, who beams upon everyone, and settles himself in a receptive attitude in a front seat. Enter second delegation from Rand Hall. They retail the latest news from headquarters in subdued tones.

Enter McCullough, Pidgeon, and Nash, who fall over each other in scramble for back seats. Meanwhile, the feminine portion of the assembly have produced their knitting, and are manipulating the needles as rapidly as their skill permits.

Enter the rest of the class, somewhat out of breath, just as the last bell tolls.

"Monie" settles himself comfortably, and says, "Mr. Greenan, do your duty." Mr. Greenan spurns the door. (A moment later.) The door opens and Abbie enters at the rate of forty miles an hour, and subsides into a seat beside "Grandpa." "Monie" now performs the part of interlocutor. Miss Roberts, Miss Malone, "Bill" Manuel, and Saxton act as end men. Involuntary contributions to the performance by various other members.

"Monie," folding his hands, and gazing pensively into space, "Now, just a few questions so that we'll know where we are. Let me see, there was a man who edited something, wasn't there, Miss Hilton?"

Miss Hilton smiles optimistically, and nods an affirmative.

"Monie:" "And what did you say it was he edited? It wasn't the Ladies' Home Journal, was it?"

Miss Hilton, doubtfully, "No-no, I don't think so."

"Monie," approvingly to the class, "She doesn't think so. That's a good start, isn't it? Now suppose you tell us what you do think it is—no—no,—Miss Hilton, Mr. Gustin wants to tells us that."

Gustin: "The Atlantic Monthly?"

"Monie," turning quickly and pointing his finger at the young ladies, who are still knitting industriously—"Who is it we're talking about, Miss Morrell?"

Miss Morrell, rising nobly to the occasion, "Thomas Bailey Aldrich." "Monie:" "And who was it went to Utah?" Ernest Small: "Brigham Young." (Laughter.) "Monie:" "Now somebody tell us who knows!"

General guessing match, until someone hits upon Lew Wallace. "Monie:" "And what did he write? What does that remind us of? Who is the greatest writer on India? Who can tell me what Kipling wrote that would make a good motto for some of us?"

A literary personage in the front row quotes:

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!"

"Monie:" "How far is it from somewhere to New York? And where is forty-five minutes from Broadway? Who lived there, and why do we know anything about her anyway? Or don't we, Mr. Saxton?"

Saxton, coming out of a trance, "Er-r-r-r, Harriet Beecher Stowe!"

General laughter, while Brother Saxton blushes furiously.

"Monie:" "Now, let's see, who's that man we haven't had much about, who got to thinking one day about the poorhouse? Miss Malone!"

That young lady, from an inconspicuous back seat, murmurs, "I'm not acquainted with any such person."

"Monie:" "Can't hear—Miss Folsom, what did she say?"

Miss Folsom obligingly repeats.

"Monie: "She thinks she doesn't know, but she does. You do, don't you, Miss Foster? Now don't shake your head at me like that!"

Abbie: "Well, I should imagine it might be Mark Twain." Audible smile,

"Monie:" "There was a man by the name of something, who lived somewhere, and wrote something, and he ought to be related to somebody that lives up here to Farmington. Who is it, Miss Tilton? Now, while she's thinking of that, Mr. Saxton, you tell us which is the more important, a minister or a consul?"

Saxton, impressively, "A minister is of more importance than anything else!"

We wonder why they smile.

"Monie," changing the subject abruptly, "I don't want to seem to discourage the industrial arts, but I shall have to ask the young ladies to dispense with their knitting while we are discussing these things that everyone ought to know."

It is done.

"Monie:" "There was a young man who left college—as sometimes happens—what happened to him then, Mr. Manuel?"

Manuel isn't going to tell.

"Monie" continues: "A very common disaster that happens to young men as soon as they get thru college—"

Manuel, a great light dawning upon him, "Oh! got married!"

"Monie:" "Just right." (Aside) "How do you suppose he knows?"

"Monie:" "Then there was that man who sat on a daïs. What sort of a thing is that, Miss Foster?"

Abbie: "Some kind of a festival day."

"Monie:" "Now there's Miss Durgan just bubbling over with the desire to tell us, if Miss Foster doesn't get ahead of her!"

Small voice from Abbie: "I shan't."

2.30 Bell rings. Class begins to get uneasy.

"Monie:" "Where did our ancestors, not the monkeys, live?"

Thurston: "On the Elbe."

"Monie:" "And where is the Elbe, Mr. Dunn?"

Roscoe: "Well, er-r-r—it flows into the ocean!"

"Monie:" Going which way?"

Roscoe: "Going that way!"

Second bell rings. Class starts pell-mell for the door.

"Monie," shouting after them as they disappear down the stairs, "For tomorrow, know everything!"

Curtain.

"Living Up to One's Ideals"

Or the Diadactic Din of a Disputatious Dog

You have all heard of that famous psychological "my dawg" so closely connected with lectures on reasoning and association of ideas. Well, after he gave up the ghost, the limelight was focused upon a brilliant successor. This one was a unique specimen of his kind; a college dog. You may not find his name in the catalogue, but he had all of the regular habits of a real Bates student.

During the early part of the first semester, there came strolling up the path leading to Parker Hall, a Freshman who was destined to receive press notice in the Lewiston papers of the most complimentary nature. He inspected Parker Hall, and then proceeded to take possession of it; he decided that the spirit of good fellowship existing there would make up for its other short-comings. Like all regular fellows, he soon decided that attendance at the Commons during meal hours was a most important part of the daily routine, while classes and Chapel were of secondary importance.

Unlike most Freshmen, Schneider was reluctant to disclose his former history and achievements; he was content to have us judge him by his future record, and for that reason his past must remain a closed chapter. We know that he came bound to make good, and that is sufficient.

Talk about Bates democratic spirit—it was simply necessary to give this fellow the "once-over;" he was ready to be anybody and everybody's pal. Sociable! Well, you should have seen him mixing in at the Rand Hall railroad sociable; even to paying his respects to the venerable Dean. Why shouldn't the mascot of the Parker Hall Association be democratic? Look up the records of the proper city authorities and you will find him licensed as the personal property of the aforementioned public-utility.

On the morning of Jan. 27, 1915, Schneider pulled off the stunt that will make his name live in the memories of the Bates Students thru generations to come. It was a crisp, cold day, following a heavy snowfall, on which Schneider came tripping down the icy path from Parker Hall. Probably he was full of the exhileration of being alive (which we read about in modern novels), as well as "hot dog." Oh, yes! he had already acquired the habit of stopping at the "All Hot" man's stand for his late breakfast, then to enter Chapel with the Coney Island fragrance tickling his nostrils.

Schneider darted thru the Chapel door, at the same time throwing friendly glances at Profs. Rob and Railroad, who were inspecting the procession of fresh young squabs that were walking to morning devotions. Deeply hurt by the hateful glances of the gatekeepers, he hurried along, sidestepping a barrier in the form of Monie who rose up from the last pew. Then, to the sweet strains of the organ, our hero sedately took his place in the Senior section. The austere dignity of the officiating members of the faculty, forbade any friendly demonstration, so, during the invocation, Schneider spent the interval in a brief inspection of the interior of the Chapel and chancel.

As the last reverberating tones died away, Prexy rose from his seat to tell us of his interesting experiences during his recent absence from the college; the great pleasure that had come to him in finding that so many of the Bates graduates were active Christians. Just at a thrilling point in the narrative, Prexy was interrupted by the sight of Schneider patting down the aisle in the direction of the chancel. But our President soon confirmed the suspicions of some of the students, that he is an experienced diplomat, for he paid a tribute to the newcomer and at the same time drew a moral from the interruption when he said "The dog has his ideals and is living up to them in the best way he knows how."

Evidently this proved to be only too true, for Schneider's orthodox Baptist conscience had revolted at the sight of the Episcopalian decorations of the chapel; he quickly decided that he must not permit his individuality to be submerged under the formal atmosphere of the service. He marched straight up to Prexy (eluding the out-stretched hands which attempted to bar his way), and after agreeably bowing to the speaker, in real brotherly fashion, he took a seat on the platform and calmly surveyed the students.

As the address continued Schneider became tired of this position and began to strut around the platform and up and down the steps; as tho to demonstrate the advantages of his freedom of movement as contrasted with the interfering effect of a gown. Tiring of this he turned around and attempted to out-stare the Dean. But in this act of heroism Schneider met his Waterloo, and very much cowed, he was compelled to seek consolation at the hands of "Willie" who was seated out of sight behind the pulpit. Not even considering himself safe in this retreat, Schneider slunk to the rear of the chancel where he was seized by the out-stretched hands of a chorister, and then cast into outer darkness.

The way of all reformers is hard and full of reverses, but because of his simple faith in a great cause which led him to attempt an assault upon the citadel of ritual—we touch our hats in full deference to "The Dog Who Lived up to His Ideals."

P. S. Schneider one day mysteriously disappeared from his old haunts. Our local "Sherlock" was assigned to the case. At first he thot that Schneider had been done away with by means of the faculty canning machine. The local sleuth swore that he had found a piece of Schneider's collar in a steaming "hot dog." But further investigation proved this deduction to be false; information from Woonsocket, R. I., states that Schneider has found a more appreciative audience for his iconoclastic efforts.

An If for Rand

(With apologies to Kipling)

If you can live in Rand without complaining,
Yet not considered by your friends a freak;
If you can smile on Buzzie without feigning
But not be too mild and meek;
If you can eat what's set before you
And feel no ill effects;
Consent to what you're asked to do
Nor put it off too gracefully on the next;
If you can the quiet hour keep,
With meditation and with prayer,
And when others are stirred to passions deep
Your countenance still's serene and fair;
If you can keep the study hours
Nor rouse e'en once the proctor's ire;
If you don't feed the dining room flowers
Nor take down the hose to play at fire;
If you can live on terms of love with all your neighbors
Nor bless those who room above
When they disturb your evening labors;
If in word and deed you're always square
And never make a mean remark;
If you mind your manners and always a hat wear
And never go out walking after dark.
If you can do all these and live in Rand,
And never from the standard once depart;
The rest of us, my dear, will never understand
The mysteries of your inner mind and heart;
But you'll be dear to the hearts of the Powers that be,
And ages to come with wonderment shall see
The prodigy of Bates College.

Initiative, Referendum, and Recall

Official Returns from the Class of 1915

From recent reports the voting was heavy in all districts of the campus and town. Complete returns were first received from Rand Hall; then the polling booths in the city were next heard from; the voting in Roger Williams and Parker Halls was not completed until the very last moment, and in fact it was necessary to send out special messengers to these districts in order to have all ballots cast by the official time set for the closing of the polls.

A general survey of the results does not reveal any startling tendencies. As usual where women vote they appeared at the polls early and in large numbers; but upon questions of a personal nature they were rather reticent. Evidently they wished not to humiliate any of the candidates, including themselves. The vote of the men was scattered thruout; but their expression of opinion was brutally frank, with the evident purpose of giving everybody a little more than their just due.

Age—This question of age is rather a trying one for the editors. Grandpa Atwood, Fred Johnston, and Howard Wight refused to divulge the date of their birth, so we will have to make a guess and place them somewhere in the lead. Gramp Atwood, Brother Layton, and Earle Harding are the senior members of the Senior Class.

We were very much surprised to learn, according to their statistic blanks, what a comparatively young class of girls we have; seven-eighths of them are just twenty-one. We hate to publish the ages of those who were sufficiently truthful to record the date of their birth before 1894, but this is one of the unpleasant features of equal suffrage for the sexes. Misses Bryant, Durgan, and Belleau have placed themselves upon record as being the most ancient young ladies of the Senior Class. We add by way of explanation that there are at least ten men of the class who have several more summers credited to their account than has our oldest co-ed.

Tallest Man in the Class—On this question the vote of the class was evenly divided between Ted Small and Louis Jordan. We shall expect great things from them as they have so great a handicap over the rest of us.

Weight—In the heavy class Higgins and Ted Small received the greatest number of votes, while Monty Moore and Bill Manuel had strong backing.

This is one of the instances in which the vote of the women was rather small, altho Miss Roberts and Miss Green were well supported.

Our feather-weights are Richardson and Dunn for the men, and Beth Wood and Pug Hooper among the women.

How did you happen to come to Bates? Most of the members of the class came to Bates as the result of the testimony of graduates. Some of the causes that led to this momentous decisions are as follows: "I liked the ideals she stands for;" "God's College;" "Money doesn't count;" "Carried past my destination;" Tom Blanchard swears by O. B. Clason; Joe Moulton came because "father did." Abbie Foster said she liked the samples she had seen. Higgins came by chance (we wonder whether it was the proverbial slim one). Miss Bryant had fallen in love with Prof. Rob; Dolloff said "Hard to tell" (we have often wondered about the pranks of fate ourselves).

Views on Matrimony—Ernie Small said "Nothing doing—safety first" (well, anyway, Ernie is the class pessimist); P. B. Stinson—"Honourable but remote;" Burleigh Moulton goes to Hallowell for every week-end, but still he hasn't any views on matrimony; Tom Blanchard, "It is expensive but not guaranteed;" Howard Wight says "That's my business" (he has a Wynning personality so we will hope for the best"); Miss Hilton says "Hazy"—(we wonder if there is not a glimmer of light to be seen thru the mist); Miss Roberts says that she is inexperienced; Mullen says that it is a very foolish idea (wait until 1917 sees this bright remark); Kenneth Witham, "Undecided" (he probably means as to when); Saxton, "Marriage is a great lottery and a poor way to escape mending your own socks (he probably wears holeproof); the city girls voted unanimously for polygamy and ten years of trial marriage; Bill Manuel, "woman is a necessary evil" (Bill speaks from hearsay); but Gramp Atwood is the final authority, he says "I've been there and it is good."

What is your chief enjoyment in college?—"Playing post-man in Education class," "Eating lunch in Rand Hall," "Living up to Briggs' ideal and being a Q. L. (whatever that means); "Putting one over on Buzzy;" "Sprinting for early morning cars;" Stephanis says "Eating at the Commons" (we are wondering about the pleasure of the fellows who eat with you); Maud Howard "Observation of customs and manners of Co-eds" (including secret signal calls of a waiting escort); Ernie Small, "5 and 10;" Earle Harding, "P. A." (this probably means "Parental Acquiescence;" Hod Davis, "Listening to Monty's Stories;" Pete Nash, "Attending Y. M. C. A. Meetings" (Pete has displayed remarkable self-restrain in this enjoyment).

Best Athlete in the Class—Talbot was selected from among the men by an almost unanimous vote. "Baldy" has been an all-around athlete since his Freshman year, baseball, track, football, and gym have been a few of his specialties. Carl Fuller had many admirers in this vote. Roscoe Dunn received favorable consideration, altho we do not know just where to classify him.

Miss Mills and Miss Bryant were well supported as candidates for this honor from among the women.

Most Popular Professor—Dr. Tubbs again receives this testimony of the high esteem in which he is held by the graduating clas. Professors Leonard, Britan, Ramsdell, and Hartshorn also received a vote of approval from the class.

Easiest Course in College—To this question a few answered "Have not found it." But the Physics Department easily won first place by a large majority. Psychology, Hygiene, Education, Oratory, and Bacteriology were also in the running.

Hardest Course in College—"Anything to Railroad" was the usual response. "Freshman Math," "Pom's Courses," and "Watson's Chemistry" were also favorites. But we would like to find the brute who said "They don't give them."

Greatest Grind (Men)—Louis Jordan of scholarship and artistic fame won first place, with Brother Abbott a close second. Gustin, Thurston, and Davis were placed in the same class; but we cannot understand how Miner, Moore, and Nash should be so honored.

Greatest Grind (Women)—In this contest the vote was widely scattered thru a field of twenty candidates. Evidently this distinction is highly prized by the young ladies. Miss Hilton (general assistant in all courses) receives first place, while the Misses Rosenbloom, Page, Greene, and Morrill have been charged with burning the midnight oil.

Greatest Pessimist—Ernie Small received an almost unanimous vote for this distinction, altho McCullough did have a few supporters.

Merry Sunshine Whitmarsh and Mary Roberts were the leading candidates from among the girls.

Sunny Jim—Evidently the men of the class all have "I should worry" for their password. Seavy, Wight, Moore, Nash, Miner, Blacnhard, Obesity Fossett, and Longbeard Tuttle were among the prominent candidates.

Miss Bassett and Merry Sunshine received a few votes from the girls, but from the scarcity of candidates it looks as tho our young ladies are not of a very sunny disposition.

Greatest Sleeper—Ted Small is the leading candidate for this honor, we are wise to him because when he oversleeps in the morning all of us follow his example. Bill Manuel, Harry Brooks, Monty Moore, and Carl Fuller have also been sized up as Rip Van Winkles.

Among the girls, Gaby Desyls Foster says that she is the greatest sleeper, but the rest of the girls failed to support her statement. Camilla Smith, Frances Bryant, and Miss Malone were designated as our sleeping beauties.

Greatest Fusser—We can hardly believe the evidence before our eyes; thirty members of the Class of 1915 have been certified as ready for a degree in the art of fussing. But Louis Knight is the only original Oliver Osborne (and the worst of it is he is proud of his record). Perkins, Carey, Davis,, Mullen, Joe Moulton, and McCullough have earned a local reputation. Grandpa Atwood and Brother Layton have even been caught in the act, judging from the ballot.

Biggest Flirt—"Jacks one and Hops on another;" Ida Kimball, by popular choice, is the modern Cleo of the class. Jessie Leighton, Maud Howard, Beth Tucker, and Beth Wood evidently have broken many hearts during their college career, according to the general opinion of the class.

Biggest Hot-Air Artist—In this contest the voting was fast and furious, but Greenan won out over Saxton by a small margin. Earle Harding and Sol Miner tied for third place, with McCullough, Fred Smith, Pure B. Stinson, Layton, and Thurston bringing up in the rear.

Gabbie Desyls Foster and Gladees Tilton were given honourable mention by the young ladies.

Most Popular Woman—Upon this question many of the girls refused to commit themselves; but Billy Durgin took first place with Esther Wadsworth a close second. Helen Hilton and Beth Wood were tied for third place. All of our girls are so popular it is easy to understand how difficult it must have been for them to make a choice.

Most Popular Man—The vote on this question was so widely distributed among the men of the class that it is only possible to name the leaders. George Talbot is first choice for this honor as well as the best athlete. Carl Fuller was not very far behind as the man of the hour. Moore and Blanchard were also prominent candidates. The atmosphere of Gardiner must have a unique composition; note well these candidates, Esther Wadsworth, George Talbot, Monty Moore, and Tom Blanchard.

Biggest Eater Among Men—The most logical answer we had to any question was made by Abbie Foster when she voted for Grandpa Atwood because he has had the longest time to eat. But by popular vote Ted Small is the biggest eater. (Some boy is this who is the baby of the class, and a leading candidate for tallest man, heavy weight, biggest sleeper and eater). "Gosh-dern-it-all" Witham, Professor Fosset, Bill Manuel, Tuttle, Thurston, Clifford, and Stephanis were the "also rans."

Biggest Eater Among Women—In most cases the girls absolutely refused to vote. We do not know whether this was due to a scarcity of food at Rand or a general sense of guilt. "We eat all we can get," and "we all eat what little we can get" were the most popular replies to this query. But the leading candidates must be mentioned, altho the necessity is painful: Edith Rideout, Viola Nevens, Mary Roberts, Ida Kimball, and Billy Durgan.

Biggest Dude—The Beau Brummell of our class, by almost unanimous consent, is Roscoe Dunn. Perkins took second place, McCullough—third place, while Mullen and Miner were tied for fourth. Knight and Tuttle received a goodly number of votes.

Best Dressed Woman—The Butterick fashion plate of our class is Miss Camilla Smith; but Miss Malone, Helen Hilton, Cecilia Walsh, Gladys Tilton, Jessie Leighton, and Ida Kimball may also congratulate themselves for their efforts meet with the approval of the class.

Prettiest Woman—As a result of this vote we are sure that the Class of 1915 can boast the possession of the best looking girls in college. In this contest a blonde takes first place; the honor goes to Miss Cecilia Walsh. But the brunettes need not feel envious for Miss Leighton takes second place. The following honors go to Esther Wadsworth, Mildred Bassett, and Helen Hilton.

Best Looking Man—The vote here was widely scattered; as one of the girls said: "They are all handsome to me." John Seavey was selected as the Apollo of the class, with Oh. See. Perkins a close second. Mullen, Saxton, Witham, and Fuller also made a place in this handsome race.

What Member of the Class Attended Chapel Least?—Among the men Eddie Pidgeon has most faithfully followed the example set by our faculty in Chapel cutting. Monty Moore established a record during the first semester which he is trying in vain to live down. Fossett, Fuller, and Brooks have also been conspicuous by their absence.

Beth Tucker, Miss Whitmarsh, and Abbie Foster have broken all records for the women. At first we wondered how they got away with it, but later advices state that they have founded a cult of their own.

What Member of Faculty Attended Chapel Least?—In his record-breaking career Coach Purry is most famous for his Chapel cutting event. This year he has again outdistanced all competitors. Professors Tubbs, Pomeroy, Hartshorn, Gould, and Prexie Chase showed lots of pep, but it was easily to be seen that they were running out of their class.

Idiosyncracy—This question was almost a failure in the way of response. Most of us were so dumfounded by its magnitude that we were unable to reach for a dictionary. In such an emergency it was the easiest thing in the world to just put down the name of our best friend. The official censor considered the publishing of this list to be detrimental to the harmonious interests of the class, so only abstract idiosyncracies will be mentioned. They are as follows: "Incompatability with Fitzies' Food," "Class Unity," "Secret Service Work," "Failing to Get Along with Buzzy," "Picking on the Freshmen," and "Perseverance for the Sake of Exactness."

What Bates Needs Most—"A new gym" received the greatest number of votes. "Dancing and Social Life" was a close second. "Home for City Girls;" "Better Food Facilities at Rand Hall;" "Better Successor to 1915;" "A Broader Viewpoint;" "Money;" "A New Chemically Pure Food Inspector;" Bunny Stinson says he is going to wait until he gets his diploma before he commits himself.

What is Bates' Greatest Asset?—"The Class of 1915;" "Bates Democracy;" "Prexy and Johnny Stanton;" "Co-eds;" "Dark Corner in Rand Hall Corridor;" "College Widows;" "City Girls;" "Haskell;" "Supt. Andrews;" "Libbey Forum;" "Lake Andrews;" "Rand Hall;" and "Schneider."

In a fair appraisal the assets are of greater worth than the liabilities, so we are sure that our institution will weather all of the storms which old Father Time may have in store for her during the years to come.
